6. The Report of the Solicitor to the Committee of London Bankers' Association.

GENTLEMEN,

In compliance with your directions, the following statement of the proceedings taken by your Solicitor has been drawn up, with a view principally of giving the Subscribers to the Association an exact account of the efforts made by the Committee in furtherance of the important objects of their appointment.

It may be useful, at the same time, to present to your notice some facts respecting the state of the crime of Forgery, more especially as affecting the Bankers of London, from the beginning of the year 1832 up to the present time, during which period the Act passed for abolishing the punishment of death in certain cases of Forgery.

Some observations are added which occurred to the writer upon a review of the transactions which have taken place since his appointment as Solicitor; also, some hints for additional precautions, the adoption of which may render Forgery upon Bankers at least more difficult and hazardous, and for further measures in aid of its suppression; and under these three heads will be contained all that appeared to be important.

The writer had the honour to receive his appointment as the Solicitor to the London Bankers' Association in April, 1832: his attention was first directed to the consideration of past transactions; next, to ascertain what most demanded his immediate care and exertion, and to arrange a sound plan upon which to conduct all future investigations, so as to render his services speedily and effectually useful.

It is well known that, previous to and at the beginning of the year 1832, the business of the Committee had been in a state of serious derangement, and indeed temporary stagnation, owing to circumstances which are familiar to every Member of the Association, and to which it will not be useful to make further allusion.

The earliest employment of your Solicitor was that of taking up the thread of previous inquiries in, and renewing, the investigation of every case which did not appear to have received the full measure of attention which it demanded, and which it required only a proper degree of diligence to complete. This was effected as speedily as possible, and at a trifling expense; and the information thus collected afterwards proved most serviceable, and formed a useful preparation for a period of more arduous exertion which shortly afterwards commenced, and during which, for several months, Forgeries upon Bankers continued to increase to an alarming extent.

Indeed, soon after this time hardly a week elapsed without some new case arising which successively required the most active and exclusive attention, and upon all which your Solicitor laboured to bestow his best endeavours for the discovery and apprehension of the guilty party, and which in most instances were ultimately crowned with success.

For the first 16 or 18 months a very considerable portion of your Solicitor's time was entirely taken up by the business of the Committee, and this state of things continued until about the end of the following year, 1833, since which time, however, it is most satisfactory to observe a material diminution in the number and amount of cases of Forgery upon Bankers, instead of their previous frequency and extent.

At the present time, referring to the information upon the subject within the reach of your Solicitor's observation, there has not been for many years, comparatively speaking, so small an average amount of crime to cause anxiety upon this question, so vital to the interests of Bankers, and the freedom and safety of monied operations through their agency.

Only 27 cases of Forgery have occurred upon some out of 24 of the principal banking-houses of the metropolis (the number at present of the Subscribers to the Association) since August, 1833.

Without entering into further detail, in this place, of the particulars, your attention is at once called to the papers comprising the "Return of Forgeries committed upon 24 of the principal London Bankers," and contained in the Appendix to this Report, numbered 1, 2, 3, and 4.

These returns were prepared at the request of Lord Melbourne, then His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department, and delivered into the Home Office in August, 1833.

The Return of all cases of Forgery, which have since occurred within the same limits, is contained in the Paper No. 5, and upon perusal of which you cannot fail to observe how fully the foregoing observations are borne out by the facts there collected under one concise view.

It will be desirable now to present you with an account of all the prosecutions which have been instituted under your direction, and with the result of each.

1. John Ridley Kitt was committed for trial from the Mansion House, charged with forging and altering, and also uttering (so altered) a (genuine) Cheque, dated London, 22d June, 1832, and purporting to be drawn by Mr. Charles Allen on Messrs. Glyn, Mills, Hallifax, and Co., for £6. 3*s*., and altered to the sum of £60. 3*s*. The prisoner was tried on the 9th July, 1832, when a verdict of "Not Guilty" was returned.

The Counsel for the Committee were however of opinion that this was a fit case for prosecution.

2. John James Levien, aged 18, was committed for trial from Bow Street, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £200, dated 2d August, 1832, and purporting to be drawn by Mr. W. G. Paxton upon Messrs Coutts and Co. The prisoner was tried on the 10th September, 1832, and a number of witnesses of respectability attended on his behalf, and gave him an excellent character up to the time of his apprehension. The Jury however returned a verdict of "Guilty," without hesitation, but added a strong recommendation to mercy on account of his youth and previous good character.—Transported for life.

3. Robert Spencer, aged 26, was committed from the Mansion House, charged with forging and uttering a Bill of Exchange for £405, dated 13th December, 1832, and purporting to be drawn by Miss Mary Ann Bloom, of Walsingham, upon and accepted by Mr. Coke of Holkham, Norfolk, and indorsed by Mr. Sampson Hanbury, all whose names were forged. The prisoner was tried on the 19th February, 1833, and convicted.—Transported for life.

4. John William Peppers, aged 28, was committed from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £55, dated London, 15th November, 1832, purporting to be drawn by Robinson, Hamilton, and Co., upon Messrs. Williams, Deacon, Labouchere, and Co. The prisoner was tried on the 17th day of April, 1833, and convicted, the Court and Jury having strongly expressed themselves satisfied of the guilt of the prisoner, and with the clear evidence brought before them in support of the case, which was a remarkable one. The prisoner was transported for life, but previously addressed a confession, in writing, to the prosecutor, of his guilt.

5. Stephen Parkinson, aged 47, was committed for trial from Hatton Garden Police Office, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £102. 18*s*., dated London, October 27th, 1832; and another Forged Cheque for £18. 17*s*. 6*d*., dated London, October 29th, 1832, both purporting to be drawn by Messrs. Boyd, French, and Boyd, upon Messrs. Whitmore and Co.; and also with uttering a Forged Cheque for £34. 18*s*., dated London, January 5th, 1833, and purporting to be drawn by Messrs. Balance and Son, upon Messrs. Glyn and Co. The prisoner was brought up for trial on the 20th day of May, 1833, and pleaded "Guilty" to all three indictments.—Transported for life.

6. Elizabeth Wratten, aged 50, was committed from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £60. 5*s*., purporting to be drawn by Messrs. Budgen and Ward, of Woolwich, upon Messrs. Masterman and Co.; and also for uttering a Forged Bill of Exchange for £92. 5*s*., purporting to be drawn by T. and W. H. Fellowes upon Messrs. Hankey and Co., and indorsed by Messrs. Fellowes. The prisoner was brought up for trial on the 6th day of September, 1833, when, upon her arraignment, she would not plead to the indictment, feigned madness, and appeared to take no notice of what was passing. A Jury was therefore impanelled to determine whether she was of sound mind, and, upon the evidence of a great number of respectable witnesses from Woolwich, where she lived, and elsewhere, as also of the surgeon, nurse, and matron of Newgate, the Jury found her of sound mind, and the Court ordered a plea of "Not Guilty" to be recorded. On the following day the prisoner was tried upon the indictment, when a verdict of "Guilty" was returned, and sentence of transportation for life was pronounced by the Court.

7. George O'Brien Kingdom was committed for trial from Bow Street Police Office, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £41. 18*s*., purporting to be drawn by Lord Frederick Beauclerk upon Messrs. Coutts and Co., and having in his possession a similar Cheque for £60, also forged; and the case was afterwards submitted to the Committee for prosecution. The prisoner was indicted for the offence, and brought up for trial on the 14th August, 1833, and pleaded "Not Guilty;" but a legal objection having been previously suggested, in consequence of the Draft being made payable to order, and the name of the payee not filled in when the Cheque was uttered by the prisoner, the opinion of the Court was prayed by the Counsel for the prosecution on this point. The Recorder, after consulting with Mr. Justice Littledale and Mr. Baron Vaughan, delivered the opinion of the Court—That it was not a negotiable instrument upon which an indictment under the last Forgery Act could be sustained. An acquittal of the prisoner was therefore directed. The prisoner was a very young man. The Forgeries were also executed in the most careless manner, and not calculated to deceive experienced persons.

8. Joseph Kay, aged 32, was committed from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £348, dated 30th August, 1833, purporting to be drawn by Mr. Thomas Dutton upon Messrs. Sir J. W. Lubbock and Co. The prisoner was tried on the 21st October, 1833, before the Recorder and a London Jury, and convicted.—Transported for life.

9. George Taylor, aged 23, late a clerk in the employ of Messrs. Sir J. W. Lubbock and Co., was committed from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £700, dated London, 23d October, 1833, purporting to be drawn by Messrs. C. Fuller and Co. upon Messrs. Drummond and Co., and also with the embezzlement of certain monies, the property of Messrs. Sir J. W. Lubbock and Co. This prisoner was brought up for trial on the 2d December, 1834, and pleaded "Guilty" to both indictments. The sentence of transportation was immediately afterwards pronounced by the Court, and carried into effect.

10. William Atkinson was committed from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £184. 10*s*., dated London, November 5th, 1833; and another Forged Cheque for £244, dated London, December 30th, 1833, both purporting to be drawn by Mr. C. J. Coverley upon Messrs. Curries and Co. The prisoner was indicted both as a principal and as accessary after the fact, and pleaded "Not Guilty." In consequence of certain legal difficulties, which rendered it likely that an acquittal would follow after disclosure of the facts of the case (and which was a peculiar one), it was determined, on the part of the prosecution, that no evidence should be offered, and an acquittal was directed by the Court.

11. John Arscott was committed from Guildhall Police Office, charged with uttering a Forged Indorsement and Receipt, purporting to be the Indorsement and Receipt of Robert Aikman upon a Bill of Exchange for £184. 9*s.*, dated Bury, January 27th, 1834, and drawn by the Marquis of Bristol on Messrs. Goslings and Sharpe, payable to the order of the said Robert Aikman. The prisoner was tried on the 5th day of July, 1834, and convicted.—Transported for life.

12. Henry Robinson, aged 16, was committed from the Town Hall, Southwark, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £10, dated 29th October, 1833, purporting to be drawn by H. Scrivenor upon Messrs. Barclay, Tritton, Bevan, and Co. The prisoner was brought up for trial at the Southwark Sessions, on Monday the 30th day of December, 1833, when a doubt having arisen as to the right of jurisdiction of the Court in a case of Felony, it was decided that the case must go to the Assizes; and on the 25th March, 1834, the prisoner was tried at Kingston, and a verdict of "Guilty" recorded, with a strong recommendation to mercy by the Jury, on account of his youth.

13. Katherine Hillier, aged 46, was committed for trial from Bow Street Police Office, charged with uttering a Forged Bill of Exchange for the sum of £463. 14*s.*, dated September 20th, 1834, and purporting to be drawn by the Earl of Stradbroke upon Messrs. Drummonds, and indorsed by the Earl of Stradbroke. This prisoner was tried on the 28th day of November, 1834, at the Old Bailey, before the Central Criminal Court, and convicted.—Transported for life. This prisoner was identified by two country Bankers and other parties as having been guilty of frauds upon them.

14. William Lupton, aged 63, was committed from Marlborough Street Police Office, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £500, purporting to be drawn by Mr. Richard Tattersall upon Messrs. Herries, Farquhar, and Co. The prisoner was tried on the 7th February, 1835, and convicted.—Transported for life.

15. Thomas M'Donell, was committed for trial from the Mansion House, charged with uttering a Forged Cheque for £87. 12*s.*, dated 12th September, 1834; and another Forged Cheque for £13. 14*s.*, dated London, January 20th, 1835, both purporting to be drawn by Mr. William Ellis upon Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smith. The prisoner was brought up for trial on the 4th February, 1835; and, upon being arraigned, pleaded "Guilty" to both indictments, and was sentenced to transportation for life—since carried into effect.

From the above short account of the 15 prosecutions which have been ordered by the Committee during the last three years, it will be seen that 12 convictions have taken place, independent of some other prosecutions which took place upon the apprehension of individuals in consequence of exertions made with that view under the directions of the Committee, and when convictions also followed, but in which the duty of prosecution was considered by the Committee to devolve upon other parties also concerned.

With respect to the three instances of acquittals, it may be desirable to offer some explanations.

First, with respect to the case of John Ridley Kitt (No. 1), so many instances had then lately occurred of Cheques presented by various persons, in which, upon detection of the Forgery, the utterer has represented himself as only employed to present it, that the Committee had resolved to order a prosecution in the first case, affording reasonable grounds for suspicion of the veracity of such statement by the utterer; and although some circumstances in the evidence appear to have left room for doubting the prisoner's guilty knowledge of the Forgery, and to have had weight with the Jury, it was considered by your Counsel to be a very fit case for prosecution. It is also believed that the prosecution had the effect of a salutary warning, as no similar case (excepting those of S. Parkinson) occurred for a very considerable time afterwards.

The employment of ticket-porters, as in the case lastly referred to, is a common and usual circumstance, and of daily occurrence, such persons being selected for the purpose, as being usually respectable and trustworthy, and therefore the instances in which they were the instruments for the presentment of Forged Cheques do not fall within the scope of these observations. It is also due to that body of persons to state, that in every such instance the most active and ready compliance with any instructions as to measures for the detection of the Forger has always been met with. A list of them was however accurately taken, for future observation or reference, from the proper officer of the City.

In the case of George O'Brien Kingdom (No. 7), the prisoner, who appears to have been a dissipated and thoughtless young man, though very respectably connected, was committed for trial from Bow Street before the case was submitted to the Committee for prosecution. Upon consultation with Counsel, it was determined, that although the Grand Jury had without hesitation returned a true bill against the prisoner, a legal objection, as stated in the above report of the case, existed, which would render a conviction irregular, and that an acquittal should be therefore prayed.

Upon a statement of the facts to the Court, the Learned Judge who presided was of the same opinion, and expressed his approbation of the course pursued. The prisoner was therefore acquitted.

The Cheque upon which the indictment was framed was in fact not (as usual) payable to bearer, but drawn payable to order. The name of a "payee" was however not filled up, and in that state the order was an imperfect, and of course not a negotiable, instrument. It had been decided, under the old Statute, in a very similar case, that, as such an instrument would, if genuine, have been valueless, no indictment for the Forgery of it could be sustained.

The last of these cases, that of William Atkinson (No. 10), was one in which there appeared very little doubt of the guilty connection of the prisoner with the Forgers or Utterers of the Cheques; and some notes, exchanged at the Bank for a £100 note, part of those paid for the Cheque, were taken from him, and restored to the Bankers defrauded. There was, however, a material want of evidence upon the direct charge against the prisoner, and it was well ascertained that the principal party concerned was a person so nearly related to the prisoner as to render it imprudent to admit the latter as evidence in the case, and unlikely that a Jury would give much weight to his testimony under such circumstances. It was also considered by your Committee that the disclosure of the case, unless followed by conviction and punishment of the parties principally concerned, was calculated to produce a bad impression, or, at least, to do no good, and therefore it was not pressed against this prisoner.

The parties are, however, now well known, and their conduct will not escape observation if again directed to similar guilty pursuits.

Amongst the other cases in which prosecution was followed by conviction, that of Stephen Parkinson is worthy of particular observation, as being that of a very remarkable person, whose perseverance in a career of deliberate and systematic Forgery, and whose ingenuity, both in executing his plans and screening himself from detection, is almost unparalleled in any instance of the same description of crime, as will be seen upon reference to the Appendix, No. 3.

It was mainly owing to the system adopted by your Committee for the collection and arrangement of information relating to all Forgeries on London Bankers, that the apprehension of this dangerous offender was secured at last, after considerable pains and expense bestowed during nearly twelve months; for upwards of two years previous to which his plans had been effected with impunity, and, until the obstacles raised by the efforts of the Committee had begun to operate, with great success.

It would be difficult to select a better illustration of the benefits derived to the Bankers of London by the existence of their Association than this case; and, upon a review of the measures directed by the Committee during the last three years, the advantages of such an Association must be apparent.

The arrangement of information, obtained by the investigation of numerous and different cases of Forgery, Embezzlement, and Fraud, gives experience useful in similar inquiries, and often suggests the means of prevention for the future.

One case of Forgery is frequently found to be connected with, or to throw light upon, another case, and an insight is thus given into the plans and proceedings of the most ingenious and systematic, and therefore most dangerous, class of offenders.

Continued and well-directed measures for their detection are thus also devised and carried on in the most efficient manner and at the least expense, and are early successful, when any isolated efforts would prove totally inadequate for that purpose, however well directed, and though often effective in individual cases.

It generally happens that in the most extensive and serious cases some inquiries should be made, and some steps are necessary to be taken instantly, which those conversant with the subject are best able to decide upon and direct without any loss of time.

The permanent appointment of a Solicitor, and through him the employment of experienced police-officers and active agents in the principal cities and outports throughout Great Britain and Ireland, as well as at Paris, Brussels, and some other places abroad, provide the ready means of procuring information or aid when required, as is often the case, to that extent.

The Solicitor of the Committee also sometimes receives voluntary communications in that capacity from persons who would never think of making them to individuals, and is thus often made acquainted with transactions and circumstances, the knowledge of which becomes useful to the Committee and the public.

It may further be asserted confidently that the existence of the Committee being known to persons inclined to commit extensive Forgeries and Frauds upon Bankers in London, as well as the certainty that every case of Forgery upon the Members of the Association will be promptly and fully investigated, and that no expense or exertion is spared to detect the guilty parties, alone acts as a useful and material check against criminal attempts of that description being made upon them. The frequent convictions which have taken place must have the effect of assuring the public that the Committee is in active and vigorous existence, and the Subscribers to the Association, that their interests are not neglected.

It is with great satisfaction that, in reference to the character and to the great credit of that valuable body of gentlemen, in whose intelligence, integrity, and zeal, so much confidence must always be placed—Bankers' Clerks, the Records of the Committee, for the last three years, present but as many instances of confidence abused, and the property of their employers embezzled by Clerks to Subscribers to the Association.

In the first instance which occurred, very soon after the appointment of your present Solicitor, the measures taken were so successful, that although the fraud was not discovered for nearly a month after the guilty party had gone away (owing to his having left on leave of absence), he was discovered and apprehended in the United States, and a great part of the property taken (being all that remained in his possession) recovered there from him, and safely remitted to London to the Banking-house defrauded.

In the second case the amount taken had been all spent in dissipation; but a conviction of the offender, who pleaded "Guilty," will, it is to be hoped, act both as a warning against extravagance on the part of persons to whom large sums are confidentially intrusted, and, above all, against a similar course of fraud, deceit, and Forgery, which the party in question, once respectable, adopted to meet his expenses.

In the only remaining case of this short but sad list, the kind consideration shown to the offender by his employers, in calling him to account for some irregularity before the extent of his guilt was fully known, and the circumstances of it submitted to the Committee, alone enabled him to save himself, by an early flight, from a similar ignominious punishment.

It is perhaps worthy of remark, in this place, that as the smallest deviation from the path of rectitude infallibly corrupts the mind, and prepares it for more extensive wickedness, so in every one of these cases the party commenced his guilty career by the abstraction of a very small amount, but which repeated successive depredations soon swelled to a sum far beyond his means to replace, and thus induced him to adopt a system of deceit and Forgery to prevent detection, subjected him to an existence of daily and hourly apprehension and misery, and, finally, to a total loss of character and prospects, and, in two of the above instances, involving also a large family in the same disgrace and ruin.

It now only remains to offer some few suggestions, which have occurred to your Solicitor as being worthy of your consideration, in respect to the future, and with a view to render the system, on the efficiency of which his usefulness depends, as complete as it can be made by improvement or some alteration.

With respect to cases in London, the plan pursued in most of them has been for your Solicitor to personally investigate each case in the first instance, so far as to enable him to form a judgment of the proper course of further and more detailed inquiry, or search after suspected parties, and then to intrust the case to intelligent and trustworthy officers, the result of whose exertions are daily, or from time to time, reported to your Solicitor; and in cases simply of this description experience has fully shown this to be the best course of proceeding.

It often happens, however, that the guilty party leaves London immediately after effecting his object, and has retired to a distant county, or fled abroad to France or Belgium. In either of these two events some further plans for discovering his retreat, or punishing him, might be usefully adopted, and, if permanently established, would very much add to the efficiency of the London Bankers' Association.

The first and most important measure alluded to is, the re-establishment of the Country Bankers' Association as a part of, or with a Committee in constant correspondence and co-operation with, the London Bankers' Committee, by means of the appointment of the same Solicitor.

This might be done, it is conceived, upon a more extensive and yet more practically useful plan than that on which the Country Bankers' Committee formerly acted, by extending it in some respects, and confining its operation in others; the three great objects of the Association to be—

I. Mutual Information.

II. Mutual Assistance, in measures for the prevention of Forgery, &c. for rewards, and by subscription towards certain general expenses.

III. Prosecution in certain cases of a very aggravated, mixed, or extensive description.

Under the first head:—

1. The communication, by every Country Banker, Subscriber to the Association, of all cases of fraud and Forgery coming under their observation to the Solicitor, for arrangement by him, and to be submitted to the consideration of both the London Committees if necessary.

2. The circulation by him, from time to time, under the direction of the Country Committee, of all information, and of notices, &c. of such facts, the knowledge of which may be likely to be useful or material to the Country Bankers in protecting them against Frauds and Forgeries.

This might be done without any additional expense, on most occasions, through their London correspondents.

Under the second head notices of Forgeries actually committed, and of rewards for the apprehension of offenders, would be more cheaply, generally, and rapidly circulated amongst that class which is most interested in the information to be given, most anxious to secure the apprehension and punishment of the offender, and most likely, from similarity of occupation, and equal liability to the same depredations, to obtain early intelligence of the appearance or movements of any such delinquents.

Under the third and last head would be afforded the ready means of instituting prosecutions in cases of great magnitude and importance, and which many Subscribers might have an equal interest in the efficient management of, under one united able direction, such as a Committee alone could afford.

Numerous letters have been addressed to your Solicitor by several Country Bankers on this subject, from which, and from personal communication with others of the first consequence and respectability in the North of England and elsewhere, there can be no doubt but that the plan would be cordially entered into by the most influential Country Bankers.

One other great improvement in the working of any plan for the prevention of Forgery upon Bankers would be to throw additional obstacles in the way of persons desirous to escape with the fruits of their villainy to America or the Continent, and to obtain from the respective governments of foreign states increased facilities for punishing them abroad, or for their being transmitted back to England for punishment here.

This latter mode has been lately adopted by France and Belgium, under a treaty for the mutual "Extra Tradition" of persons guilty of certain specified crimes in one country who may have fled to the other to escape prosecution. A copy of this treaty was soon afterwards obtained for your information, and affords a good precedent, if the principle of it can be carried to the full extent, and which it is clearly the interest of all great commercial countries to adopt for mutual protection.

Your Solicitor has also reason to believe, from several communications with his Excellency M. Van de Weyer upon the subject, and other sources of information, that both the Belgian and French governments are desirous to enter into such an arrangement with His Majesty's Government.

It is a subject of much importance, and the establishment of such a system would form at once a very effectual check upon parties who now, after committing extensive frauds and Forgeries upon the commercial community, retire abroad previous to its discovery, and, although well known, live upon their plunder with impunity. In the United States of America every possible assistance which can be afforded (and most effectually), without interfering with their municipal regulations, has always readily been given by that Government in aid of measures for the recovery of property obtained by means of fraud or Forgery.

Finally, the only part of the subject which seems now to require notice, is that of the expense of the Association, as shown in the Solicitor's bills for the last three years, the abstract of which has been printed, and is now before the Subscribers. In these every payment and all expenses are included, and although the amount of the balance due to your Solicitor is large, it is with great satisfaction that your attention is directed to the very considerable diminution in the expenses of the last year as compared with any former year since, it is believed, the existence of the Association :—

In the first year, 1832-3, the whole amount of expense incurred is	£866 12 1
During the second, 1833-4, the total of expenses is	1,465 0 10
The sum total of bills and expenses for the third year, 1834-5, is	796 8 8
Making the whole expenditure for the 3 years	£3,128 1 7
Less the sums received for allowance for expenses in the prosecutions	232 9 6
Real amount	£2,895 12 1
Payment for Rewards	50 0 0
Total	£2,945 12 1

This statement will show you that the average expense of the Committee for the last three years has been considerably under £1,000, or about £981. 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum; and your Solicitor confidently believes that unless some case of unusual importance should arise at any future time, the expense may be kept down under, or not much exceeding, this limit, allowing for an ordinary number of prosecutions.

With sincere acknowledgments for the confidence reposed in him, and the kind attention which he has ever met with at your hands, your Solicitor has the honour to subscribe himself,

Your devoted and most obedient servant,

JOHN BU

	10 Forged bills of Exchange, viz.—Three ditto paid, seven ditto stopped.
	60 to 70 Forged cheques were also paid away during this period by Robert Byers, whose case is referred to in the above list. But these were all drawn in fictitious names upon Messrs. Jones, Loyd, and Co., who, of course, never paid any of them; and it was considered by the Committee that this branch of the case came rather within the description of "swindling" than of deliberate forgery.

No. 3.—List of Forgeries committed by Stephen Parkinson, between the months of February, 1831, and April, 1833.

Date.	Description of Instrument.	Amount.	Remarks.
1831. February 19 to December 5.	19 Forged cheques,	Varying in amount; the highest for the sum of £50, the lowest for the sum of £12. 10*s*; making a total of 16 cheques paid. Amount £393. 12*s*. Three cheques stopped; amount not distinctly ascertained.	This person, who, for upwards of two years, lived entirely upon the produce of his numerous Forgeries, remained undiscovered until the 24th of April, 1833, when he was apprehended, committed for trial at the London Sessions for May, 1833, and pleaded guilty. In the early period of his guilty career he was very successful in obtaining payment of most of the cheques he had forged; and appears to have possessed much correct information on the subject of the persons whose names he forged, and their means, &c. He was in consequence one of the most dangerous offenders ever known in this class of crime. He always employed a porter to get the cheque cashed, and appointed a place of meeting to receive the money. His usual companion in guilt was a boy of 14, who gave him warning if the cheque was stopped. Owing, however, to the strict measures taken, he was latterly very unsuccessful in his attempts; and, finally, apprehended on the 24th of April, 1833.
1832. January to July 7.	11 Forged cheques,	Varying in amount; the highest for the sum of £72. 10*s*., the lowest for the sum of £21. 15*s*.; making a total of eight cheques paid. Amount £357. 15*s*. Three cheques stopped; amount not exactly ascertained.
	About 8 more Forged cheques.	During the above period may be traced to this individual; but the particulars, and amount of them, cannot be distinctly ascertained, as they were stopped, and are since lost.
1832, August, to 1833, April 12.	18 Forged cheques,	Varying in amount; the highest being for the sum of £102. 18*s*., the lowest for the sum of £34. 18*s*.; making a total of eight cheques paid. Amount £409. 5*s*. Ten cheques stopped, for about £300 more.

		The increase of cases upon the General List, on an average, comparing the former period of eight months with the latter of twelve months, will be twenty-one cases more within the twelve months in the proportion of 27 to 48, dividing the last twelve months into three periods of four months, and allowing sixteen cases to each period. The principal increase, however, really took place during the first six months of the present year, 1833; several convictions for Forgery also took place in London and Middlesex in this interval of time. No case of Forgery has been brought under the notice of the Committee of London Bankers from the 25th June to the 3d August.

Summary.

1833. August 4 to 1835, March 31 inclusive.	21 Forged cheques. 13 paid, 8 stopped.
	1 Altered ditto.
	3 Forged bills of Exchange. 1 paid, 2 stopped.
	2 cases of Embezzlement
	1 case of Notes stolen, but recovered.

The above are all the cases brought under the notice of the Committee during a period of one year and seven months, giving an average of from four to five cases, of every description, in each quarter.

Out of these convictions were obtained applicable to twelve bills or cheques and seven offenders.

If the above nineteen months are again divided into five periods, of nearly four months each, and compared with the last Return made on the 3d August, 1833, there will be only an average of from five to six cases in each of such periods, thus showing a decrease of more than ten instances of forgery in each period, compared with the last year.

Of these twelve distinct cases, comprising thirteen forged documents, occurred during the first year, and four convictions. And ten distinct cases, comprising the remaining fourteen forgeries, happened during the remaining seven months, and three convictions took place.

SUMMARY, 1836, 1837.

1836. April 1 to 1837. March 31 inclusive.	Thirteen forged cheques.
	Two forged bills of exchange.
	Five and numerous other bills of exchange forged and uttered by Thomas Caney Smith, to an amount exceeding £10,000.
	One case of embezzlement.
	One case of notes, &c. stolen.
	Four trials for Forgery, and four convictions.

The above list includes all cases brought under the consideration of the Committee during the year ending 31st March, 1837, showing an increase of four cheques and one bill of exchange, under the head of "Forgery," exclusive of the case of Thomas Caney Smith, late a merchant in the City, which is one of greater magnitude and enormity than has occurred for many years.

There is, however, a decrease under the head of "Embezzlement by Clerks" and "Notes Stolen;" in the former by two cases, in the latter one as compared with the last year's returns.

Five banking firms have been added to the number of subscribers to the association in this year, making the whole number twenty-nine instead of twenty-four, as in the former years.

St. Mildred's Court, 28th April, 1837.

7. England and Wales.—Criminal Tables for the Year 1836.

The decrease of Crime, which commenced in 1833 and continued through the two following years, amounting in the aggregate to 13 per cent., appears, by the Tables for 1836, to have suffered a slight check in that year. The Total Number of Persons charged with Indictable Offences being,—

In 1834—22,451, Decrease on the preceding Year, 1 per cent.
1835—20,731, „ „ 8 „
1836—20,984, Increase „ 1 „

This Increase is still less by half per cent. than the computed annual increase in the population: but, though small in amount, has been general, extending over Twenty-six English Counties and the City of Bristol, and to both North and South Wales. In Thirteen English Counties there was a decrease; in one the numbers remained the same.

Of the Twenty-three English Counties having the largest proportional agricultural population an Increase of Offenders is shown in twenty. In Hertfordshire it amounted to 36 per cent.; in Cambridgeshire to 32 per cent.; in Hampshire to 24 per cent.; in Northamptonshire to 23 per cent. (though in the preceding Year there was a Decrease of 50 per cent. in this County); in Suffolk to 17 per cent.; in Somersetshire to 16 per cent.; and in Herefordshire and Norfolk to above 10 per cent. The Three Agricultural Counties which form the exception are Bedfordshire, Oxfordshire, and Buckinghamshire—the Decrease in these Counties being respectively 7, 11, and 15 per cent. Of the Counties having a mixed population, Cumberland shows an Increase of 43 per cent.; Northumberland of 34 per cent.; Worcestershire of 18 per cent.; Liecestershire of 12 per cent.; Derbyshire of 9 per cent., and Cheshire of 2 per cent.

But in the great Manufacturing and Commercial Counties there has been a considerable Decrease. In Lancashire of 17 per cent.; in Nottinghamshire of 15 per cent.; in Staffordshire of 12 per cent.; in Warwickshire of 4 per cent.; in Middlesex of 3 per cent., and in Surrey of 2 per cent.: in Yorkshire (including the Three Ridings) there was an Increase of 2½ per cent.

In comparing the numbers charged with the various descriptions of Crime, the Increase will be found to have taken place chiefly in the minor offences; and that in those of a graver stamp there has been a Decrease.

In the First Class—Offences against the Person—the Decrease amounts to 3 per cent., and includes all the most atrocious Crimes of the Class, except the Unnatural Offences; in these there is an Increase, though the numbers are still much below those in 1834.

In the Second Class—Violent Offences against Property—there is a Decrease of above 3 per cent., the only exception being in the Crimes of Housebreaking and Sacrilege.

It is in the Third Class—the Offences against Property committed without violence—that the Increase of the past year has arisen. It amounts to nearly 4½ per cent., and falls chiefly under the head of Simple Larceny; though in two other prominent Offences there has been a considerable Increase, viz.—

	1834	1835	1836
Sheep Stealing	229	221	298
Larceny by Servants	813	871	987

In the Malicious Offences against Property there has been a very trifling Increase, which has principally occurred in the least atrocious Offences.

In Forgery and Offences against the Currency there has been a Decrease of 2½ per cent. Of the Forgeries, separately, the Numbers were, in 1834, 59; in 1835, 64; and in 1836, 55.

In the remaining Class—the Miscellaneous Class—the Decrease has reached 32 per cent., having fallen principally under the heads of Riot and Breach of the Peace, and Offences against the Game Laws.

The Crimes of Infanticide and Concealing the Births of Infants have been latterly the subject of Inquiry in reference to the operation of the New Poor Laws. In the former Offence the Numbers have been ascertained for the Year 1836; but no comparison can be made, the Offence having theretofore been placed under the general head of Murder. In that Year, 1836, there were Ten charges of Infanticide, including, with principals and accessories, eleven females and four males; but a conviction took place in one case only. The Numbers charged with Murder were, in 1834, 86; in 1835, 78; and in 1836, 73. The Numbers charged with Concealing the Births of Infants in the same Years were 44, 37, and 45, respectively.

Since the Year 1827 Capital Punishment has been Abolished in the following Offences. In order to shew what may have been the influence of this alteration in the Law, a comparison has been made of the Average of the Numbers charged with each Offence, in the Three Years preceding the Abolition, and the Numbers in the past Year: they were—

	Average.	1836
Larceny in Dwelling Houses	141	170
Sheep Stealing	262	298
Horse Stealing	180	148
Cattle Stealing	29	35
House Breaking	717	407
Forgery	48	55
Coining	5	29
Sacrilege	13	25
Letter Stealing	5	7
Total	1,400	1,174

Comparing these Totals, a Decrease of 20 per Cent. is shown; but in the Offence of House Breaking the alterations which have taken place in the Law render the direct comparison with former Years incomplete. The same remark applies to Forgery, the Laws relating to it having been much enlarged by the Forgery Act of 1830, and Offences subsequently Indicted as Forgeries, which could only have been charged as Frauds under the previous Law. These cases cannot be estimated at less than one-fourth the Total Number of Forgeries, which they will have increased in that ratio.

The Sentences passed in each of the Three last Years are given; they corroborate the statement that the slight Increase in 1836 has been in the more trivial Offences; the Increase in the Numbers Sentenced being chiefly in those Punished by the shortest Periods of Imprisonment, viz.—

	1834	1835	1836
Death	480	523	494
Transportation for Life	864	746	770
„ Fourteen Years	688	554	585
„ Seven Years	2,508	2,329	2,256
Imprisonment for Terms above One Year	314	301	286
„ One Year and above Six Months	1,582	1,543	1,455
„ Six Months and under	8,825	8,071	8,384
Whipped, Fined, &c.	734	662	541

The most marked change which has taken place in the Administration of the Criminal Law has been with regard to Capital Punishments:—In the Three Years ending with 1820, 312 Persons were Executed; in the Three Years ending with 1830, 178 Persons were Executed; in the Three Years ending with 1836, 85 Persons were Executed; but in the last Year, taken separately, the Numbers were 17 only.

In the Ages of Criminals there has not been much fluctuation, but the slight change which has taken place shows an Increase of Juvenile Offenders during the past Year. The Numbers at each Period of Life, and the Proportions per Cent. which they bore to the Total, were as follows:—

	1834	1835	1836
Aged 12 Years and under.	400	346	386
Proportion per Cent..	1·78	1·67	1·84
Aged 16 Years and above 12.	2,204	2,010	2,037
Proportion per Cent.	9·82	9·70	9·71
Aged 21 Years and above 16.	6,473	6,147	6,092
Proportion per Cent.	28·83	29·65	29·03
Aged 30 Years and above 21.	7,069	6,617	6,592
Proportion per Cent.	31·49	31·92	31·42
Aged above 30 Years	6,305	5,611	5,877
Proportion per Cent.	28·08	27·06	28·00

The degree of Instruction has been better defined during the past Year, and the Number of Offenders ascertained under the following more precise divisions:—

Unable to Read and Write	7,033	Centesimal Proportion . .	33·52
Able to Read and Write imperfectly	10,983	„ . .	52·33
Able to Read and Write well	2,215	„ . .	10·56
Instruction superior to Reading and Writing . .	191	„ . .	0·91
Instruction could not be ascertained	562	„ . .	2·68

Thus while above two-thirds of the Criminals have received some Instruction, little more than one in ten were able to Read and Write well, and not one in a hundred could be described as having received an Education superior to the mere attainment of Reading and Writing well.

8. State of Crime in England and Wales, as compared with France.—A comparison of the results contained in the French Report and Summary, with the results of the English Tables,—so far as the same can be made out, particularly with regard to Education.

The definitions of Crime, and the mode of procedure, differ so greatly in the two countries, that it would be very difficult, and in many respects impracticable, to attain, with any certainty, to more than a very general approximation of some of the principal results.

In England and Wales, in 1836, the Number of Persons charged with Indictable Offences, was in the proportion of 1 in 662, to the population.

In France, in 1834, comparing the Number of Offences tried before the Cours d'Assizes, and such of the Offences brought before the Tribunaux Correctionels as appear to correspond with the Offences in the English Tables, the porportion of Criminals to the Population is about 1 in 550.

The following is a comparison of the Sentences passed in the same Two Years:—

FRANCE. 1834.		ENGLAND AND WALES. 1836.
Death	25	494 . .	Death.
Hard Labour and Imprisonment for Periods exceeding 15 Years	286	770 . .	Transportation for Life.
——— from 15 to 10 Years	240	585 . .	„ 14 Years.
——— from 9 to 5 Years	1,460	2,256 . .	„ 7 Years.
To Imprisonment simply.		Imprisoned.
4 Years and above 2 Years	517	1 . .	Above 2 Years.
2 Years and above 1 Year	935	285 . .	2 Years and above 1 Year.
1 Year	5,515	1,455 . .	1 Year and above 6 Months.
6 Months and under	24,681	8,384 . .	6 Months and under.
Fine.	16,638	541 . .	Whipped, Fined, &c.
Police surveillance	500
Infants under 16, imprisoned for Periods less than 4 Years	25

The Proportion Convicted was, in England and Wales, 71 per cent.: in France, by Juries in the Cours d'Assizes, 59·9; by the Judges of the Tribunaux Correctionels, without the intervention of a Jury, 71·5.

Considering the foregoing Estimate of the relative amount of Crime in the two Countries, and that the difference of Population is as 42 to 100, the greater severity of the English Laws is strongly exhibited. That this result cannot be attributed to the greater proportion of atrocious Crimes in this Country is proved by the Tables; the most violent Offences, particularly those against the Person, being committed in a far greater proportion in France than in England.

A further exemplification of the severity of the English Laws will be found in a comparison of the Punishments inflicted on the Vols Simples of the French Tables and the Simple Larcenies of the English.

Vols Simples	15,020	11,597 . .	Simple Larcenies.
Convicted	11,568	8,591 . .	Convicted.
		64 . .	Transported for Life.
		225 . .	„ 14 Years.
		1,451 . .	„ 7 Years.
Imprisoned 1 Year and above . . .	3,646	83 . .	Imprisoned 2 Years and above 1 Year.
Under 1 Year.	6,861	698 . .	1 Year and above 6 Months.
		6,023 . .	6 Months and under.
Fined	771	47 . .	Whipped, Fined, &c.
Infants sent to a House of Correction .	290

While the Capital Punishments have in many cases been abolished in this Country, changes of a similar nature have been effected in the French Laws. By a recent modification, Juries are permitted to attach to their Verdicts a spontaneous declaration of circumstances in extenuation (circonstances atténuantes), and thereby to proportionate the Sentence to their opinion of the Crime. This change, the Minister states in his Report, experience proves has had an influence on the truth of the Verdict, and has lessened the practice of Juries giving a verdict at variance with the evidence (which has been a common practice also of English Juries) solely with a view of reducing the severity of the Sentence; and the Minister remarks, that the Law has gained in certainty what it has lost in severity.

The numbers Capitally Convicted and Executed in France in the Three last Years published in the Tables, as compared with the same Three Years in England, were,—

	IN FRANCE.		IN ENGLAND.
1832—Sentenced to Death . 90	Executed . 41	Sentenced to Death . . 480	Executed . . 34
1833— „ 50	„ 34	„ . . 523	„ 34
1834— „ 25	„ 15	„ . . 494	„ 17

In 1826, the Numbers Capitally Convicted in France were 150, of whom 111 were Executed.

The Education of Criminals in both Countries has been ascertained under the same definitions, and admits therefore, of a direct comparison. In France, the Instruction of those tried before the Cours d'Assizes only (6,952) has been ascertained. The following is the centesimal proportion:—

	FRANCE.	ENGLAND AND WALES.
Neither Read nor Write	58·7	33·52
Read and Write imperfectly	29·7	52·33
Read and Write well	8·7	10·56
Superior Instruction	2·9	0·91

Included in the above Numbers are 1,400 Criminals who had undergone a previous punishment (Recidives). They may be safely assumed to be of the worst class. Their degree of Instruction has been separately distinguished. The principal difference in the results is in the most educated class:—

	Recidives.
Neither Read nor Write	59·0
Read and Write imperfectly	31·7
Read and Write well	8·1
Superior Instruction	1·2

The proportion of Juvenile Offenders is far greater in England and Wales than in France: but the comparison is made between the total of Offences in this country and the most violent classes in France—those tried by the Cours d'Assizes. Aged under 16, France 1½ per cent.; England and Wales 11½ per cent.

By the French Code, a material modification is made in favour of Prisoners under 16 Years of Age. If it is decided that the Prisoner committed the Offence without discernment, he is acquitted; but, according to circumstances, he is either placed in a House of Correction, to be élevé et detenu, or delivered to his friends. If he is found to have committed the Offence with discernment, the punishment he has incurred is greatly diminished, and in no case can he be punished by Death, travaux forcés à perpétuité, or any other punishment which includes public exposure.

STATEMENT

SHOWING

THE ALTERATIONS IN THE CRIMINAL LAW

BY THE

BILLS INTRODUCED BY LORD JOHN RUSSELL.

Bill to abolish the Punishment of Death in Cases of Forgery.

By the present Law the Offences of forging Wills and Powers of Attorney to transfer Stock, and certain other Forgeries created by the 2 & 3 W. 4. c. 59, and several subsequent Statutes, are still Capital.

The proposed Bill abolishes the Punishment of Death in respect of all Forgeries now Capital, and substitutes a Punishment varying between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not less than Two Years, the same Punishment as was inflicted by the 11 G. 4. & 1 W. 4. c. 66. [the Forgery Consolidation Act] in the Case of the Forgeries from which it removed the Capital Punishment.

Bill to amend the Laws relative to Offences against the Person.

By the 9 G. 4. c. 31. the Eight following Offences are Capital, viz.—

1. Administering Poison
2. Attempting to administer Poison,
3. Attempting to drown, suffocate, or strangle,
4. Shooting at, or attempting to discharge loaded Arms,
   and,
5. Stabbing, cutting, or wounding, - s. 11,

   } with intent to commit Murder.

6. Shooting at, or attempting to discharge loaded Arms,
   and,
7. Stabbing, cutting, or wounding, - - s. 12,

   } with intent to maim, disfigure, or disable, or do some other grievous bodily Harm, or to resist the lawful Apprehension of the Offender for a Crime.

8. Using Drugs or Instruments for the purpose of procuring the Miscarriage of a Woman quick with Child - - - s. 13.

By the proposed Bill it is intended to retain as Capital Three only of the Eight Offences specified on the opposite side, viz.—

1. Administering Poison
2. Attempting to drown, suffocate, or strangle,
   and,
3. Stabbing, cutting, or wounding,

   } with intent to commit Murder.

All the other Offences which are Capital by the 11th, 12th, and 13th Sections of the 9 G. 4. c. 31, are made punishable between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

The proposed Bill also introduces Two new Offences, viz.—

1. The sending explosives,
2. The throwing corrosive Fluids, &c. upon the Person,

   } with intent to burn, &c., and whereby actual Injury inflicted.

It also abolishes the distinction between a Woman's being quick and not quick with Child, in the Case of procuring Abortions.

N.B.—The proposed Bill varies from the Heads of the Bill as prepared by the Commissioners in the Omission of the overt Act of "any other Means whatsoever manifesting a Design to kill," out of the Capital Attempt to Murder Clause.

Bill to amend the Laws relative to Burglary and stealing in a Dwelling House.

By the 7 & 8 G. 4, c. 29, the Two following Offences are Capital, viz.—

1. Burglary [to constitute which the mere lifting the Latch of the Door of a Dwelling House after Dark, and the insertion of a Hand with intent to steal any thing within, are sufficient] - - - - - - s. 11.
2. Stealing in a Dwelling House, any Person therein being put in fear - - s. 12.

By the present Law there can be no Burglary if there be sufficient Daylight to discern a Man's Face.

By the proposed Bill it is intended to retain as Capital, only—

Burglary, when accompanied with an Attempt to murder, or by stabbing, cutting, wounding, beating, or striking.

The simple Offence of Burglary is made punishable between Transportation not exceeding Fifteen Years, and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years; and Burglary, when committed by Numbers or with offensive Weapons, or where the Inmates are put in fear by any Menace, Threat, or Gesture, and stealing in a Dwelling House, any person therein being put in fear, between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

By the proposed Bill the Hours during which Burglary may be committed are fixed as commencing at Nine o'Clock in the Evening and ending at Six o'Clock in the Morning.

N.B.—This Bill varies from the Heads as prepared by the Commissioners, in the Omission of the Words "or use any other Personal Violence," after the Word "strike," in the Capital Clause, and of the Word "Violence" in that part of the next Clause which relates to stealing in a Dwelling House.

Bill to amend the Laws relative to Robbery and stealing from the Person.

By the 7 & 8 G. 4, c. 29, the Three following Offences are Capital, viz.—

1. Robbery [to constitute which, any forcible taking of Property from the Person of another, with intent to steal it, where the Force used is sufficient to raise the presumption that it was intended to overpower Resistance; as, plucking a Watch, secured by a Steel Chain, from the Neck of a Person; forcing an Ear-ring from the Ear of a Lady, or snatching a Diamond Pin from her Head-dress with such Force as to remove it, with Part of the Hair, from the Place where it was fixed] - - - - s. 6.
2. Accusing of any infamous Crime, with Intent to extort, and thereby extorting, Money, &c. - - - - - - - - s. 7.
3. Plundering or stealing any Part of a Ship in Distress, or wrecked, &c., or any Goods, &c. belonging to such Ship - - s. 18.

By the proposed Bill it is intended to retain as Capital, only—

Robbery, when accompanied with stabbing, cutting or wounding.

Robbery, when committed by Numbers, or with offensive Weapons, or when accompanied by beating, striking, or using any other personal Violence, and the accusing of any infamous Crime with intent, &c., are made punishable between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

Simple Robbery and plundering Wrecks are made punishable between Transportation not exceeding Fifteen Years, and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

By the same Bill the Offences of stealing from the Person, assaulting with intent to rob, and demanding by Force or Threats with intent to steal (now punishable between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Four Years), are repealed and re-enacted; in the case of stealing from the Person, with a Punishment similar to that of Simple Robbery; and in the case of the other Two Offences, with a Punishment not exceeding Five Year's Imprisonment.

N.B.—This Bill varies from the Heads of the Bill prepared by the Commissioners, in the Omission of the Words "or shall with any offensive Weapon or Instrument do grievous bodily Harm," after "wound any Person," in the Capital Robbery Clause.

Bill to amend the Laws relative to burning or destroying Buildings or Ships.

By the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, the Seven following Offences are Capital, viz.—

1. Setting fire to Buildings, &c., with intent to injure or defraud - - - - s. 2.
2. Setting fire to Coal Mines - - - s. 5.
3. Setting fire to, casting away, or otherwise destroying Ships, with intent to prejudice any Owner, &c. - - - - s. 9.
4. Exhibiting false Lights with intent to bring Ships into Danger, or doing any thing tending to the immediate Loss of Ships in Distress, or wrecked, &c.;

   or,

5. Destroying any Part of any Ship in Distress, or wrecked, &c., or any Goods belonging to such Ship;

   or,

6. By force preventing any person endeavouring to save his Life from such Ship - s. 11.
7. Setting fire to Stacks of Corn, &c. - - s. 17.

By the proposed Bill only the Three following Offences are retained as Capital, viz.—

1. Setting fire to a Dwelling House* (without specifying any Intent).
2. Setting fire to, casting away, or otherwise destroying Ships, with intent to murder any Person, or whereby Life endangered.
3. Exhibiting false Lights with intent to bring Ships into Danger, or doing any thing tending to the immediate Loss of Ships in Distress, &c.

All the other Offences mentioned as Capital on the opposite side are, with the exception of destroying any Part of any Ship in Distress, &c., or any Goods belonging to such Ship, and the preventing any Person endeavouring to save his Life from such Ship, (the former of which Offences is made punishable between Transportation not exceeding Fifteen Years and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years, and the latter repealed altogether, as being included within the Attempt to Murder Clause, of the Bill relating to Offences against the Person,) made punishable between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

N.B.—This Bill varies from the Heads of the Bill as prepared by the Commissioners, in the Omission, out of the Clause against firing a Dwelling House, of the Words "actually inhabited, or to any Barn, Stable, Outhouse, or other Building, being respectively either Parcel of such Dwelling-House, or contiguous and adjoining thereto," after the Word "Dwelling-House," and of the Offence of firing any Building with intent to murder.

Mr. Baron Alderson proposed to substitute for the Words "contiguous and adjoining," used by the Commissioners, the Description "within the Curtilage." By the Common Law Offence of Arson, all Buildings within the Curtilage are included by the Word "Dwelling House" used in the Bill as it now stands; it is probable, however, that some Clause will be requisite either to declare that the Common Law Definition shall apply to the Word as used in the present Bill, or that it is to be understood in a more restricted sense. The enumeration of Barns, &c., in the next Clause of the Bill, would probably be considered as intended to exclude those Buildings from the Capital Charge, though within the Curtilage.

* The Crime of setting fire to a Dwelling House includes the Common Law Offence of Arson, but goes further, it not being requisite, to constitute the new Offence, that the Dwelling House should be the Property of another, or that it should actually burn, both which are necessary ingredients of Arson.

Bill to amend certain Acts relating to the Crime of Piracy.

By the different Acts recited in the proposed Bill the Crime of Piracy, and several Offences by those Acts declared to be Piracy, are made punishable with Death.

By the intended Bill it is proposed to retain as Capital only the Offence of Piracy, in respect of a Ship, accompanied by stabbing, cutting, or wounding.

All other Capital Piracies are made punishable between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years.

Bill for abolishing the Punishment of Death in certain Cases.

By this Bill the Punishment of Death is proposed to be repealed in respect of all Offences now Capital (except the Seven following, viz., Treason, Murder, Rape, carnally abusing Girls under Ten Years of Age, Sodomy, Offences against the Riot Act, and the riotous Destruction of Buildings), not included in any of the other Bills, and a Punishment, varying between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years, to be substituted. The Number of Offences from which the Punishment of Death is proposed to be removed by this Bill is Eight.

As to Offences against the Riot Act and the riotous Destruction of buildings, it is proposed to introduce a separate Bill as to these, and by the same Bill to create a new Capital Offence, compounded of a rebellious Riot and the Destruction of Buildings. This will probably include Offences consisting of a general design to destroy Property, now Treason.

The Offences of Treason, Murder, Sodomy, Rape, and carnally abusing Girls under Ten Years of Age, are now under consideration; and it is probable that a modification will be suggested as to some of these Offences.

As regards any inconsistency in the Degrees of Punishment in the case of Crimes not affected by these Bills, as compared with the Punishments inflicted by them, a Classification of all existing Punishments is in preparation by the Commissioners, which will remove such inconsistency.

Bill to amend the Law relative to Offences punishable by Transportation for Life.

By this Bill it is proposed to substitute a discretionary Punishment, varying between Transportation for Life and Imprisonment not exceeding Five Years, in those cases where Transportation for Life must imperatively be inflicted by the present Law, which has been found to be very inconvenient.

Bill to abolish the Punishment of the Pillory.

THE following TABLES for SCOTLAND have, by the directions from the HOME OFFICE, been substituted for the Form specified in the Statute 1 GUL. IV. c. 37, with the view of more nearly assimilating them to the Criminal Tables now in use to be presented to Parliament for England. In consequence of the different systems of Criminal Procedure in the two Countries, a complete assimilation was impracticable. But to assist in bringing the assimilation more close for comparative investigation, a comparative Table of the respective Classifications of Offences is here annexed.

REPORTS.

TO THE RIGHT HON. LORD JOHN RUSSELL, &c.

My Lord, Raymond Buildings, 21st July 1836.

We beg to lay before your Lordship the enclosed letter from Mr. Bullar, the architect employed to examine the depôt at Dartmoor, and the King's House at Winchester, with a view to the adaptation of these buildings to a prison for juvenile offenders, together with the accompanying plans and estimates.

It appears from Mr. Bullar's survey of Dartmoor prison that, in addition to the cost of constructing cells, and of effecting arrangements indispensable to the purposes of a penitentiary, a considerable outlay will be required for general repairs. According to Mr. Bullar's plan, Dartmoor prison could not even then be rendered capable of accommodating more than 726 boys, while the whole expense attending the conversion of the building would amount to not less than £72,659.

Mr. Bullar is of opinion that the King's House at Winchester could not be adapted to the confinement of a larger number than 480 boys; and that the expense of this appropriation would probably amount to £52,505.

As the estimates for the conversion of these buildings amount to so large a sum, we have been anxious to discover if there be any other public building which could be appropriated to this object at a less expense; and, as your Lordship, with this view, directed our attention some months back to the Ordnance establishments at Waltham Abbey and Enfield Lock, we have requested an opinion from Mr. Bullar as to the eligibility and probable expense of altering these buildings for the purpose. Porchester Castle, formerly occupied by prisoners of war, having been mentioned to us in reference to this object, some remarks respecting this building will also be found in the accompanying Report.

We regret, however, to state that, for the reasons assigned by Mr. Bullar, the buildings at Waltham Abbey, Enfield Lock and Porchester Castle are quite inapplicable to the purpose.

In regard to the buildings at Dartmoor and Winchester, we respectfully submit that it would not be expedient to incur so large an expenditure as that estimated. There are many disadvantages in their original form of construction which cannot be removed; and, notwithstanding the serious expense which would attend the required alterations, they would still be, in many respects, ineligible for the proposed object.

We feel the more strongly inclined to offer this opinion from a conviction that a new prison for boys may be constructed, on the most-approved principles, for a sum less than that which has been estimated for the appropriation of either of the buildings in question, in a situation in the immediate vicinity of the Metropolis, more favourable than Dartmoor or Winchester for superintendence and inspection.

Under these circumstances, we beg to add that we shall be prepared to submit to your Lordship a Plan of a New Prison for Juvenile Offenders, on receiving your directions to that effect.

We have, &c.

(Signed) William Crawford,
Whitworth Russell,
Inspectors of Prisons.

Mr. BULLAR'S REPORTS on Dartmoor Prison, the King's House at Winchester, Porchester Castle, and the Government Works at Waltham Abbey and Enfield Lock.

My Lord, London, July 16, 1836.

In obedience to the directions which were forwarded to me from the Home Office, I proceeded immediately to Dartmoor, "to make a survey of the prison buildings, and also an estimate of the expense necessary for putting the same into a fit state for the reception and maintenance of juvenile prisoners." Although the buildings of Dartmoor Prison have not been erected more than 30 years, they are now not only in want of general repair, but several of them are greatly dilapidated, and in a state of progressive decay. This has arisen in a great measure from the inferior quality of the materials used in their construction, particularly as it regards the masonry of the walls, &c. Much of the stone is of a sandy porous nature, and the work was apparently carried up hastily, and without proper attention to its durability; parts of the external facing being filled in with fragments of unsquared stone, which, together with the mortar they are bedded in, are in a state of decomposition.

The general decay has also been accelerated by the locality and nature of the climate; the country for some miles round being subject to dense fogs and rain during the greatest part of the year. In consequence, the walls are frequently saturated with damp, which has occasioned a gradual rotting of the wood-work and timbers attached to the walls. The principal timbers of the large buildings have suffered least; but, in the hospital and barrack-building, and in all the dwelling-houses and domestic offices, where the walls and timbers are covered with flooring or plaster, the plates, lintels, bonds, battens, joists, quarters, and all the wood linings appear to be rapidly decaying.

I will now proceed to lay before your Lordship the particulars and estimates of the repairs which are necessary to be done to the various buildings in their present state; and also a description of the alterations proposed to be made in the prisons, to form cells for the separate confinement of juvenile criminals, agreeably to the accompanying Plans (Nos. 1 and 2), and in conformity with the suggestions of Messrs. Crawford and Russell, the Inspectors of Prisons.

DARTMOOR PRISON.

Prison Building.—No. I.

Roofs.—To rip all the slating, and reslate ditto with large square sound slates, nailed with copper nails, and make good the deficiency with new slates. To repair the boarding and rafters to each part of roof, and make good all the defective parts with new; and the same to the raised or upright parts of roof, restoring the frames and linings, sashes, and movable boarding; and also to repair and make perfect the projecting rafters feet and eaves-boarding round the roofs. To exchange the lead-work to each part of roof, for new milled lead, (seven pounds to the foot superficial,) and fix flashings, and cover the timbers with lead where exposed externally. To repair the principal timbers to the roof, ceiling-floor, and raised part, replacing with new such as may be defective, and scarfing or piecing the tie-beams, also fixing new wall-plates, or lintels, of oak; and to provide all necessary iron work for securing the same in the best manner.

The principal timbers to the one-pair floor (which must be kept in as ties to the building,) to be repaired or restored in a similar manner, together with the plates and lintels; and proper ironwork to be provided for the whole.

To fix iron sashes and frames to the ends of building, on each story; the openings to be made as large as the space and height of floors will admit, to give additional light to the passages and staircases.

To fix new stone staircases at each end of building, from ground-floor to the raised part in roof, to be properly secured to the walls; the sides to be enclosed with strong framed iron hand-rails, newels, and bannisters.

To fix iron frames and sashes to all the windows on each story, to be properly secured to the walls, and to glaze the same with crown glass. All the windows to have iron hopper blinds fixed on the outside, in manner and form as to be directed.

To fix new double doors to the external openings on ground-floor, similar to the present, with proper hinges, locks, and other requisite fastenings.

To take down the stone steps at entrance doorways, and privies, and rebuild the foundations, and rework and reset such of the steps (with those also from the staircases) as are sound; and make good the deficiency with new stone of the same scantling as the present.

To case all the walls round the building inside with half a brick, worked flat in cement, with foundations below ground-floor to be nine inches wide.

All the walls inside to be twice lime-whited.

To repair the external walls round the building and the gables, cutting out the decayed or loose stone work, and filling in the same with sound squared stone.

All the joints to be raked out, and flushed up, and pointed with cement.

The copings on gables to be restored with new where defective, and the whole reworked and set in cement, with proper iron cramps and ties.

The cills, lintels, and jaumbs, to be worked square, and made level to each part.

The plinth round the building to be made perfect, and cased with strong tooled Yorkshire paving, (in one height,) to be well secured to the walls, and the joints set in cement. An opening to be made under each window, and a cast iron grating fixed therein, to admit air below the ground-floor.

The privies at end of building to be rebuilt in their present form, and fitted up with strong seats, risers, and flaps.

The cesspools to be emptied and cleansed, and the walls round the same made perfect.

The cooking-house, at the other end of the building, to be put in perfect repair, and fitted up as a residence for the turnkey or superintendent. A new staircase to be fixed, and new joists and floor, to form an upper room. The walls inside to be battened, plastered, and whited; the sashes and frames, linings, doors, chimneys, and other necessary finishings to each part to be made perfect, as may be directed. The roof and external walls to be repaired, in the same manner and with materials as described to the large prison building.

All the wood and iron work, inside and out, to each building, to be painted four times in oil and white lead.

The foregoing particulars of repairs and restorations will also apply to the prison buildings, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, all of which are in a similar state of dilapidation; but very particular attention will be requisite, in each building, to examine carefully into the state of the wall-plates, lintels, and ends of all the principal timbers, which are more or less in progress of decay, and must be restored with new, or repaired by scarfing or piecing, and the whole properly secured with iron work.

The same particulars of repairs, &c. will apply to the hospital building (No. 8, on plan), and also to the barrack building (No. 9, on plan), except that neither of these two buildings have any raised part in the roofs. The interior of these buildings has been plastered, the walls being battened and lathed, all of which is in a state of decay, and must be removed, together with the unsound bond timber, plates, lintels, &c. behind the same. The walls should then be cased inside, with brick in cement, in the same manner as is described to the other prison buildings. The cooking-house in the yard attached to each of these two buildings to be fitted up for the residence of a turnkey, or superintendent, as described for the other building.

The following are the estimates of the repairs, &c. necessary to be done to these buildings as hereinbefore described.

Prison Building,	No. 1	£1,476
„	No. 2	1,101
„	No. 3	1,223
„	No. 4	1,541
„	No. 5	1,219
„	No. 6	1,101
„	No. 7	1,461
„	No. 8	1,683
„	No. 9	1,103
	Total	£11,913

The iron-railed fences, which surround the several prison-yards, with the stone curb into which they are fixed, require to be repaired, and the whole made perfect and secure with braces, and iron chevaux-de-frise fixed on the top. The whole of the iron work to have four coats of paint.

The stone walls which surround the yards in the rear, and also the division-walls between the yards, require to be repaired, and the copings made perfect and reset. The raised platform in front of the large prison-yards to be taken down, and also the stairs leading to the military posts in the rear, and the parapets round the same. These are all in a state of decay.

New gates are required to various parts of the prison-grounds, and several openings in the boundary and other walls should be blocked up.

The front entrance gates to be new; the stone piers to be reworked, and the walls on each side to be repaired and made perfect.

The foregoing works are estimated at £826.

Alterations of the Nine large Prison Buildings, to form the same into cells, for the separate Confinement of Juvenile Criminals.

It is proposed, by the accompanying plans (Nos. 1 and 2), to reconstruct the interior of each of these buildings with separate cells.

The ground floor (Prison No. 1) to have a range of cells on each side, leaving an open corridor in the centre, about 25 feet wide, for the prisoners' exercise in bad weather. A large space for work-room to be left at one end of the building, about 40 feet by 43 feet. The corridor to be lighted by a range of windows, to be made in the side walls, above the ceiling of the cells. On the first floor above, a range of cells to be formed on each side (as below), with a large work-room at the end.

The central space over the corridor to be formed into a double range of cells, which will be entered from a passage on each side, four feet six inches wide.

These middle cells to be supported by iron columns, placed in the corridor below, with iron bres-summers under the superincumbent walls.

Each of the middle cells to have a window over the door, and to receive light from large glazed skylights in the roof, which will also light the passages to the cells.

Above the middle cells it is proposed to form another double range of cells (in the roof), similar to those below, with a work-room at the end. The upper cells to be lighted by windows, placed in the present raised sides of the roof. All the cells to be divided by walls, one and a half brick thick; the floors to be paved with stone landings, and the ceilings formed of thick slate covering.

Each cell to have a cast-iron window and door, and proper means of ventilation to be adopted.

The work-rooms, corridor, and passages to be paved with stone. The sides of work-rooms and passages to be enclosed with iron hand-rails and banisters.

The water to be laid on to each building with pipes, and cisterns fixed in the roof; and washing-places to be fitted up in the corridor and work-rooms.

The other prison buildings, Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, to be constructed with cells in a similar manner: these buildings vary in their lengths, as will be seen by reference to the plans.

The hospital building, No. 8, and the barrack building, No. 9, to be divided into separate cells on each story (as shown in the plans). In these buildings there is no raised part in the roofs, and consequently not sufficient height to form an upper tier of cells, as in the other buildings. New staircases to be made in each of these two buildings.

The number of separate cells, which may be formed in the prison buildings, is shown by the following statement:—

In one of the large buildings (No. 4) the corridor and end space on the lower floor to be fitted up with seats, &c., as a chapel for all the prisoners. (The area will allow about five feet superficial for each prisoner.) An infirmary, for cases requiring entire separation, may be fitted up in one of the detached buildings.

The following are the estimates of the new works necessary to be done in the construction of separate cells, &c., according to the foregoing statement:—

In order to secure an entire separation of the prisoners confined in each building, when, during the hours of relaxation from labour, they are admitted into the yards, it will be requisite to divide the grounds attached to the respective buildings by walls in the rear, as well as by iron-railed fences next the central parts of the prison.

A division-wall should be built between the present hospital-yard and the wash-house and laundry buildings.

It will also be necessary to place additional iron-railed fences across the entrance court and military way.

The open water-courses, which now run across the prison-yards, should be carried under ground in brick-arched drains.

The external boundary wall (now only 13 feet high) should be raised five feet, and made secure.

My attention has also been directed to the state of the buildings which will be requisite for the accommodation of the various officers and servants connected with the establishment; and I beg to suggest the following as the most desirable appropriation of these buildings:—

The house in front (on the left side of entrance), with a dwelling attached in the rear, to be the residence of the governor. (This building was formerly occupied by the surgeon and dispenser's apartments.)

The house adjoining, in the rear (late the storekeeper's house), to be the residence of the surgeon.

On the other, or right, side of entrance, the house in front (late the agent's), to be for the residence of the chaplain.

The small building in the rear, together with the house adjoining, to be for the clerk and storekeeper's house and offices.

All these buildings require a general repair, the wood work throughout being in a state of rapid decay.

The small cottages, and other dwellings, across the entrance court, on each side (late the turnkeys' residences), are all in a state of decay, having been built in a slight manner. They do not appear to be required for the purposes of the establishment: I, therefore, recommend that they be taken down, with a view to afford an increased space in front of the prison-grounds, and also to enable the governor and officers to have greater facility of access to the prisons from their residences.

The building comprising the wash-house, laundry, drying-room, &c., to be repaired and refitted for similar purposes.

The dwellings adjoining, formerly the surgeon-mate's and the matron's apartments, to be repaired, and fitted up for the residence of the matron and other female servants. The low building, at the end to be taken away.

The building adjoining the hospital-yard (formerly the guard-room) to be converted into the general kitchen. The corridor, in front of the same, to be removed, and the windows raised, so as to obtain additional light in the interior. This building will require a general repair, and various fittings up.

The octagonal building adjoining (late weighing-house, &c.) to be altered and fitted up as a scullery, bread-rooms, &c., with store-rooms over. A new staircase to be made inside. The small building at external angle to be taken away.

The octagonal building, on the opposite side, to be converted into rooms for the reception, examination, and cleansing of prisoners, on their entrance. The upper story to be fitted up as store-rooms for clothing, shoes, &c. A new staircase to be made to the same inside. The small building at external angle to be taken away, and the wall made good, to correspond with the other side.

The building in barrack-yard (formerly the large cooking-house) may be converted into a brewhouse.

The stable buildings next the road, on each side of the entrance, require to be repaired, together with the walls, gates, &c., which enclose the yards in front of the same.

Estimates of the repairs necessary to be done to these buildings, and of the requisite alterations to be made in them, as above described.

THE KING'S HOUSE AT WINCHESTER.

I have also made a survey of the King's House, at Winchester, together with the other buildings, and the grounds adjoining, comprising, in the whole, 23 acres. These premises are, at the present time, occupied by a regiment of foot soldiers, consisting of about 700 men.

The principal building, the King's House, is admirably situated, as it regards air, salubrity, and ventilation, being on an eminence, above the level of the city, and just removed from it.

The building stands at a considerable distance from the road. It forms three sides of a quadrangle, the western, or principal front extending about 326 feet in one range. The north and south fronts, forming the wings, are each about 212 feet in length, and 63 feet in width, leaving the internal area of the quadrangle 200 feet by about 172 feet. The whole is four stories high above the ground, with a basement under each wing.

This building was never completed agreeably to the original design, none of the interior divisions or finishings having been executed. On being subsequently appropriated for barracks, it was divided into lodging-rooms for soldiers, each apartment being about 21 feet square, with central and lateral passages 10 feet wide. The partition-walls are of brick, on an average 18 inches thick. Each room has a fire-place. The floors are of timber and boarded, except the basement, which is paved with stone. The staircases are of wood. The external fronts are of brick, with stone cornices and other decorations. The central parts and entrances have stone columns and pilasters.

At the distance of about 110 yards from the large building, and near the road from which is the principal entrance, there is a handsome brick building, about 66 feet by 42 feet, three stories high, containing five apartments on each floor, with a convenient suite of offices, detached stable building, and large garden. This house has been appropriated to the use of the commanding officer of the troops; except that, twice a-year, during the assizes, it is given up to the judges for their temporary residence.

There are several other buildings on the site, which have been erected for various purposes connected with the barrack establishment; viz., a detached hospital, 85 feet by 80 feet, large wash-house, guard-house and canteen, armourer's shops, straw and wood sheds, &c.; also a detached house and garden, occupied by the barrack-master.

The grounds, although of considerable extent, are not subdivided; and only a small portion of the premises is enclosed with a boundary-wall next the road, but which is low and insecure.

A footpath crosses the principal airing-ground in the rear, which contains eight acres and a half, and the only enclosure to this ground consists of a hedge on one side next the road.

The surface of the ground round the building is very uneven; parts of the exterior, which were formerly the old castle ditch, and now a deep ravine, being 50 or 60 feet below the level of the building.

On the north side the premises are in part bounded by an ancient building, in which the county courts are held, and to which the public have access. One corner of this building is only 17 feet distant from the King's House, and it has windows next the same.

In regard to the eligibility and convenience of these premises for the proposed prison for juvenile criminals, I would beg to remark that one great defect is the want of a proper boundary wall, which appears to be absolutely requisite for the security of the prisoners, and the erection of this will occasion a very considerable expense.

Another objection is, that the house which should be appropriated for the residence of the governor, or superintendent, is too far removed from the principal building to enable him to exercise a constant control over the prisoners; and, if this officer's apartments are placed in the principal building, as they ought to be, they will occupy much space which is requisite for the formation of cells.

The main building is too nearly approached on the north side by the county courts, the public access to which would, it is considered, interfere with the order and regularity which ought to prevail throughout the establishment.

There is another circumstance which also contributes to place the situation in an unfavourable point of view:—

The "Southampton Railroad," which is now in progress on the adjoining land, will cross the large airing-ground in the rear, in such a direction as to pass within about 200 feet of the principal building; it will in consequence detach nearly the whole of the eight-acre piece from the other grounds. It will also add greatly to the expense and difficulty of forming a suitable boundary-wall in that direction, the level of the railway being 25 feet or more below the surface; and it would further bring on the necessity of enclosing the eight acres, should the same be continued for the use of the new establishment.

I will now lay before your Lordship the particulars of the various repairs and alterations which appear to be requisite, to put the premises into a fit state for the reception and management of juvenile prisoners, with the estimates of the same, agreeably to the instructions which were forwarded to me.

The principal building is in tolerably good repair; the external walls are of considerable thickness, and have been erected with materials which continue in a good state of preservation. The brick work is in general very sound, but it requires to be carefully examined and made perfect, and all the open joints pointed with the best cement. The same remarks will also apply to the external masonry and stone work throughout the building.

The slating and lead work to the roofs, gutters, &c., require to be examined, and made sound and perfect, and the defective parts restored with new; and also the rain-water and other pipes.

The drains throughout the premises to be opened, cleaned out, and repaired.

The cesspools to be emptied, and the privies in basement fitted up in separate divisions, as to be directed.

The two internal courts should be paved with stone, in place of the present brick covering. All the stone paving to the basement story, areas, passages, &c., to be taken up and relaid, and the deficiency made good with new.

The steps to the areas, cellars, doorways, &c., to be reset, and made good with new stone to each part.

The brick work to area-walls, foundations of steps, &c., to be made perfect, and also the iron railings, gratings, &c. connected with the same.

The internal or division walls of the rooms, which have been built long since the original erection, require to be carefully examined at the foundations, below the pavement of basement story.

In the cross walls of the south-east wing, which contain chimney-breasts, settlements have lately taken place, which it is stated have arisen from the walls being injudiciously placed on wood sleepers; these are now rotting, and chasms are forming in the walls, which must be securely shored up; the foundations to be cleared out, and the unsound parts of the walls rebuilt in cement. Should the same defects be found to exist in the foundations of the other internal walls, much additional expense will probably be incurred in securing the same.

The building is not now fire-proof, by reason of the floors being of timber, boarded and ceiled; all these must be taken away to make room for the cells.

The girders, and other principal timbers, should remain in the walls, as ties to the buildings; but all of them will require to be examined, and made perfect, and secured with proper iron work, &c.

The window-frames and sashes throughout the building, also the external doors, frames, and linings, require to be repaired and made perfect, together with the fastenings to each part.

The various repairs necessary to be done to this building, I estimate will cost .	£7,515
The governor's house, with the offices attached, also the stable building in front, and the garden-walls, to be put in perfect repair, will cost . .	1,360

Alteration of the large Building, to form Cells for the separate Confinement of Juvenile Prisoners.

It is proposed by the accompanying plans (No. 4) to divide the present rooms into cells, each of which will be about 10 feet wide, and of lengths varying from 21 feet to 10 feet: most of these cells will be sufficiently large to enable the prisoners to work in them, and on this account separate work-rooms are not provided.

By this subdivision of the rooms, 120 cells will be obtained on each floor; making, in the whole, 480 cells on the four stories.

The division-walls between the cells to be one and a half brick thick. Each cell to be properly ventilated, and to be lighted by a separate window. The present windows being very large, they should be reduced about one-half of their height; the same to be blocked up on the inside, to preserve the external appearance.

The middle cells in the two wing-buildings to be lighted by windows above the doors, which will receive a borrowed light from the upper part of the external windows; a space to be left over the side cells for that purpose, and a ceiling formed over the same, at the height of about nine feet.

The floors of the cells, passages, &c., to be paved with stone, on brick arches, or cast-iron bearers.

New staircases to be formed, as shown in the plans; the whole to be of stone, well secured to the walls; the sides and landings to have iron handrails, bannisters, and newels.

The cell doors to be of oak, in two thicknesses, with iron-plating between, well secured with iron rivets, and proper hinges, locks and fastenings.

Washing-places to be provided on each floor, and the water to be laid on with pipes, to cisterns in the roof; and proper drains, to carry off the waste water, to be formed round the exterior of the building.

Proper apartments to be fitted up in the principal building for the use of the superintendent and other officers.

On the two upper stories, part of the building in the centre (over the officers' rooms) to be fitted up with seats, &c., as a chapel, for all the prisoners. The upper floor to be taken away for this purpose, as to be directed.

The basement story of each wing-building to be fitted up for the necessary offices connected with the cooking and victualling department, store-rooms, &c.

The expense of the various alterations necessary to be made, to provide separate cells, as above described, is estimated at £19,286.

PORCHESTER CASTLE.

I have also surveyed Portchester Castle, the buildings of which are wholly unoccupied, and, together with the surrounding walls, are in a state of perfect ruin and decay. These buildings are of great antiquity, having been erected many centuries back. The square tower, at the north-west angle, which was used for the confinement of French prisoners during the war, is the most ancient part of the edifice: it is about 42 feet in the clear of the stone walls, which are from six to eight feet in thickness. The tower is very lofty, and, rising above the surrounding walls, is seen from a considerable distance. The tower has been divided into seven stories, by timber floors boarded over; the height of each story being from 10 to 11 feet. A wooden staircase leads to each floor, and at the top there has been an embattled parapet, which is now in ruins.

Each floor is divided into two parts by a cross wall, from east to west, about five feet thick. The timbers of the several floors are in want of repair.

The tower is the only part of the castle which has been tenantable for centuries; but the walls of it are in a state of extreme decay, having large chasms in many parts.

I do not consider this tower can, in any efficient manner, be converted into separate cells for the confinement of prisoners; as these would require openings in each cell, for light and air, which it would be impracticable to form in the present walls.

The area enclosed within the castle walls is about 600 feet by 490 feet.

The entrance is by a large portal of Norman architecture, leading from the road on the west side: there is also another portal on the east side, next the water, the tide flowing round the walls partially on three sides.

Several small circular towers project from the walls externally, and there is a parapet round the whole, with battlements, all of which are in ruins.

The buildings which have been erected subsequently to the square towers consist of a chapel, about 55 feet by 20 feet; various state apartments, kitchen, and other offices, surrounding a court-yard about 130 feet square, with an internal gateway. All these buildings were of stone, in the enriched Gothic style; but they are now, more or less, in perfect ruin.

At the south-east corner of the area, within the walls, a portion of the ground has been enclosed, (measuring about 240 feet by 200 feet,) on which stands the parish church of Porchester, to which the inhabitants have access on Sundays, when they are admitted within the castle walls during service time. The church is an old building, about 140 feet by 30 feet in the clear.

The continuance of this arrangement would be inadmissible, in the event of these premises being appropriated for the object in view.

But, after a mature consideration of all the local circumstances, I cannot recommend the appropriation of these premises to a prison for the confinement of juvenile criminals, as it would be necessary to construct entire new buildings for this purpose: the space would then be very limited, and the situation by no means judicious or convenient.

The state of the surrounding walls would also require an entire restoration of the same, the expense of which would be equal to, if not more considerable than, that of erecting a new boundary-wall, on another site of similar extent.

I have the honour to be, my Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient, humble servant,

To the Right Honourable Lord John Russell,
&c. &c. &c.

GOVERNMENT WORKS AT WALTHAM ABBEY AND ENFIELD LOCK.

GENTLEMEN, 14, Bunhill Row, July 18, 1836.

Agreeably to your directions, I have accompanied you in your inspection, and have surveyed the Works belonging to His Majesty's Government at Waltham Abbey, and also those at Enfield Lock; for the purpose of ascertaining whether the buildings and site of ground, &c., at either of these places, might be rendered available for a prison for juvenile criminals.

The establishment at Waltham Abbey is used for the manufacture of gunpowder, &c., and consists of various buildings, not connected, but placed at a distance from each other; some of them being separated by large pieces of water, for security against danger by ignition. The only buildings which appear suitable for the object in view, are some large workshops used by millwrights, carpenters, &c., with a dwelling-house and offices, at the entrance to the establishment; but the ground on which these buildings stand is limited in depth, being bounded in the rear by the river Lea; and there is not sufficient space to admit of buildings being erected thereon, which would be requisite for the prisoners' dormitories. The other parts of this establishment consist of powder-mills, proof-houses, &c., which are spread over a considerable extent of ground, (more than 20 acres,) lying in detached pieces, and principally surrounded by water, which is used as a power for working the machinery. But none of these buildings are suitable for the proposed adaptation, and the general disadvantages of the site render it, in my opinion, totally unfit for that purpose; while, it may be mentioned, that the whole is so well arranged for its present destination, as a work of national utility, that it does not appear desirable to alter the same.

The buildings at Enfield Lock (which, together with the grounds adjoining, containing about 23½ acres, are shown in the accompanying plan) are used for the manufacture of fire-arms, swords, &c. The workshops consist of several distinct ranges of buildings; viz., a mill-house (with water-power at each end), forges, finishing-shops, proof-house, store-houses, &c. Some of these buildings are of large dimensions, and might be converted into suitable work-rooms for prisoners. There are not, however, any buildings which could be appropriated for dormitories, with the exception of 64 cottages, situate on the bank of the River Lea, which are now occupied by the workmen and their families; but these dwellings are by no means applicable for this purpose, being detached by the water, and too far removed from the manufactory and central part of the ground. It would, therefore, be requisite to erect new buildings to contain the prisoners' sleeping-cells; and this must, necessarily, be attended with considerable expense, on account of the unfavourable nature of the soil; the ground, which is in some parts below the level of the surrounding water, being damp and loose; and it would require an entire substructure to be formed in concrete, of considerable depth, to render the new buildings perfectly secure.

Another principal objection to this site is the want of a boundary-wall; there being no external barrier or fence besides the water, which not only surrounds, but intersects, the premises in a most unfavourable direction. To erect a boundary-wall for the security of the prisoners, round the manufactory only (comprising about five acres), would occasion a very considerable expense; as the wall must in many parts be placed next the water's edge, which would require a solid embankment of stone; and, on account of the loose nature of the soil, the foundation generally must be carried down to a much greater depth than would be necessary on another site not possessing these disadvantages.

It is stated that in wet seasons the ground is frequently under water, from the overflowing of the navigation, the level of which next the Lock is, in general, only a few inches below the embankment: the locality is also subject to fogs during the winter-time. For these reasons it appears highly desirable that any design which may have been formed respecting the appropriation of this site should be abandoned.

I am, Gentlemen,

To Messrs. Crawford and Russell,
Inspectors of Prisons, &c. &c.

Your very obedient servant,
GEORGE T. BULLAR.

Mr. RUSSELL'S REPORT on Parkhurst or Albany Barracks, Isle of Wight.

My Lord, 26, Cumberland-street, 3d September 1836.

In obedience to your Lordship's instructions, I have inspected the Parkhurst or Albany Barracks, near Newport, in the Isle of Wight; and I have the honour to report, that I consider the barracks, though, from situation and arrangement well adapted for a prison for juvenile delinquents, as too extensive, in the first instance, for such an institution. There are, however, at the distance of about 300 yards, two buildings, the one formerly used as the hospital for the barracks, and the other as an asylum for invalid children from the Military School, at Chelsea. These buildings are, in every respect, most admirably adapted for the proposed prison, and, for a moderate outlay, may be made to contain 280 boys.

The buildings stand in the centre of about fifty acres of land, the property of the Crown.

The situation is exceedingly healthy, and is very retired, being sufficiently remote from other buildings, and surrounded by a thick belt of plantation.

There is ample space for the instruction and employment of the boys in trades and agricultural pursuits, and for enlargement to any extent, if the institution should be found to answer its design, and if it be desirable to increase the number of its inmates. Being only a few miles from the ports of Yarmouth, Cowes, and Ryde, there is water communication with all the ports of the kingdom for the conveyance of convict boys to the prison, and for their removal to the Colonies after their period of confinement shall have expired.

I beg to call your Lordship's attention to the accompanying plans and estimates which I have had prepared from measurements taken on the spot; by which it will be seen that, for the sum of £15,390, the hospital can be adapted for the reception of 200 boys.

This sum provides boundary wall, 200 separate cells, large and convenient apartments for the governor and officers, chapel, infirmaries, workshops, reception cells, cleansing room, and all other offices necessary for the institution.

The boundary wall encloses a space of sufficient extent to admit of ample airing yards, and the employment in agricultural pursuits within the walls, of such of the boys as may not be permitted to work on the land surrounding the proposed prison; and, whenever it may be necessary, at least 300 additional cells may be constructed without further enlargement of the boundary wall.

The asylum is about 100 yards from the hospital, and for the sum of £1,100 may be adapted for 80 boys more, of a junior class, under 11 or 12 years of age, whom it would be very desirable to separate from the elder boys. Here there are excellent apartments for the chaplain of the institution, who would have the young boys constantly under his care and observation: there are also all the offices and farm-buildings necessary for the establishment, and for the profitable occupation of the land around the prison.

Whilst I am confident that the proposed site holds out advantages for the formation of a penitentiary for juvenile delinquents, possessed by few, if any, other situations in the kingdom,—certainly by none I have either visited or heard of,—the buildings and land may be devoted to the proposed object without impairing the efficiency of the Albany Barracks, the parade and extensive drill-grounds, being on that side of the barracks which is opposite to that on which the proposed institution stands, will remain untouched; and there are abundant buildings which may supply the place of the present hospital. The asylum, which never formed a part of the barracks, together with about 40 acres of the land above described, was recently advertised for sale, by order of the Master-General of the Ordnance. I may also state that the Albany Barracks have been altogether unoccupied by troops for the last seven years.

I beg to express to your Lordship my decided opinion, after many inquiries and calculations, and much reflection on the subject, that, allowing a certain time for the settling of the system, and bringing it into complete operation, the labour of the boys would greatly diminish, if not entirely defray, the expenses of the establishment; whilst the certain improvement and probable reformation of a most interesting class, now almost hopelessly doomed to a life of crime, would be of very great advantage to the community at large, and would be incalculably beneficial to the immediate objects of the institution.

I most respectfully submit these circumstances to your Lordship's consideration, and I have, &c.

(Signed) WHITWORTH RUSSELL,
Inspector of Prisons.

DESCRIPTION of the ALTERATIONS and ADDITIONS proposed to be made to the HOSPITAL BUILDINGS, and also to the ASYLUM, at PARKHURST, or ALBANY BARRACKS, ISLE OF WIGHT; for converting the same into a PRISON for 280 JUVENILE CRIMINALS.

Hospital Buildings.

The ground intended to be enclosed by the new boundary wall, is 380 feet in width, by a depth of 450 feet, extending to a road in the rear which leads to the asylum. The site will contain about four acres.

The boundary-wall to be fifteen feet high above the surface, with foundations three feet below the same. The wall above ground to be on an average two bricks thick, and below to be three bricks, with proper footings.

The ground in the rear may be converted into a vegetable garden, to be cultivated by the prisoners. The large area in front to be divided into two airing courts, (as per plan).

The dwelling-house in the centre building contains eight rooms on each floor, and is two stories high: these apartments may be appropriated for the residence of the governor, and his assistant officers. Each of the wing-buildings is at present divided into two large hospital-wards, on each story; these it is proposed to subdivide into cells, by partition walls, 18 inches thick; and the middle wall to be two feet thick, (as to be directed). The cells to be arched over in brick-work, or covered with thick slate in one width. The principal timbers of the floors, &c. to remain, as ties to the building. The joists and boarding may be used as flooring to the cells; or, otherwise, the cells to be paved with Yorkshire stone.

To obtain the required number of cells, (viz. 200,) the side wings must be extended towards the front. The present wing-building will furnish only 144 cells, (vide plan,) and, to provide 56 more, it will require an enlargement of about 53 feet in length to each wing.

The external walls to the new cells to be 18 inches thick, and the partition walls and middle wall to be the same as described to the other cells. The floor and ceilings to be formed in a similar manner, and the whole finished complete. Each cell to be entered from the outside, by doorways to be formed in the external walls, to have strong oak door-cases, and doors framed in two thicknesses, each of $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch yellow deal, with stout iron plating between, and rivetted through, with strong hinges, locks, and fastenings, as to be directed: a small cast-iron glazed sash to be fixed over each door, and proper ventilators let in at floor and ceiling. Iron galleries to be fixed outside to all the cells, about two feet six inches wide; the bottom formed of slates, two inches thick, grooved at the joints, and fixed on iron bearers, to run through the walls; the sides and ends to be enclosed by iron upright bars, three feet high, with wrought iron top rail. The present windows in walls to be taken out, and the openings bricked up; the walls to be made secure and perfect to each part, after cutting out apertures for the doors, windows, &c. to the cells.

The roofs to new wing-buildings to have timbers, boarding, and slating, and to be finished in each respect as the other roofs. All the cells to be twice lime-whited inside.

The two cooking-houses and wash-houses, at ends of centre buildings, to be repaired, and made suitable for the service of the prison.

The range of storehouses in the rear to be converted into work-rooms for the prisoners. The division walls, partitions, and fittings-up, to be altered, removed, and refixed, as may be found requisite for the several trades to be carried on therein.

The small detached building, on each side of front wings, to be fitted up for the residence of taskmasters.

The detached building in the rear (hitherto a "foul ward") to be repaired, and fitted up for a chapel and school-room; with seats, pulpit, desk, and pews for officers.

The buildings on each side of front entrance, (late guard-rooms, &c.) to be altered as per plan, to form rooms for officers, surgeon's examining room, cleansing-room, with bath and copper, fumigatory with oven, and cells for the reception of prisoners on their entrance. These buildings to be raised a story higher, with brick walls, the same thickness as those below, to be eight feet high in the clear; to contain an infirmary, divided into two apartments, with nurse's room, and water-closet. The other side-building to contain store-rooms for the prisoners' clothing, and for other purposes, as to be directed. All these rooms to be finished complete.

New gates, with fastenings, &c., complete, to be fixed at the entrance.

The present timber fences round the premises to be taken down, and used for the enclosure of airing courts.

The privies, cess-pools, drains, and water-courses throughout the premises, to be examined, cleansed, or emptied, and put in repair; together with the gutters to roofs, rain-water pipes, and trunks; also the water-engine, and pipes for conveying water to and from the cisterns, sinks, &c.

The roofs to all the buildings to be examined, and the slating repaired and made perfect; also the chimney-shafts, and external brick and stone work.

The wood work and fittings up to centre building, inside and out, to be put in repair, together with the iron work, locks and fastenings to each part.

The plastering to be made perfect throughout the premises, and the whole to be whitened or plain-coloured. The new plastering to be two coats and set.

The wood and iron work painted before, to be painted twice in oil and plain colour. The new wood and iron work, inside and out, to be painted four times in oil. The sashes to be glazed with second crown glass, and all broken glass made good at the finish.

To perform the foregoing works, it is estimated, will cost the sum of £15,390.

GEORGE THOMAS BULLAR,
Architect.

£15,390.

London, August, 1836.

The Asylum.

The whole of this building to be raised a story, to contain dormitories for 80 criminal children, with two sleeping-rooms for superintendents (as shown in plan). The present roof and ceiling-floor to be taken off, and the walls raised, to make the lower story one foot higher. A strong new floor of joists, with trimmers and girders, to be fixed over the whole, with proper wall-plates and ties. The upper story to be 10 feet high in the clear; the walls round to be one brick and a half thick, with proper bond timber and lintels, and wall-plates and ties to the ceiling-floor, which is to be refixed, (from below,) and also the timbers to roof, with the boarding and slating, as at present; also the lead work, gutters, and water-pipes, and any deficiency of materials to be made good with new. The upper floor to be laid with 1¼ inch yellow deal, wrought, and skirted round 10 inches wide. Two-inch framed deal or quarter partitions to be fixed, where shown in plan, with linings, doors, and fastenings.

Sashes and frames to windows, glazed complete, with stone cills, and arches over outside.

The inside of new walls to be twice lime-whited. The ceilings to both stories to be lathed, plastered two coats, set, and whitened.

The new wood-wook, inside and out, to be painted four times in oil and lead, of plain colour.

A strong framed staircase to be fixed from ground to upper floor, with hand-rail, banisters, string-board, linings, and carriage complete.

All the rooms on the ground-floor to be repaired, in each respect as is described to the rooms in the hospital; and also the plastering and painting to each part.

To perform the foregoing works to the asylum building, it is estimated will cost the sum of £1,100.

DESIGN FOR A NEW PRISON FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENTS.

MY LORD, 26, Cumberland-street, 3d September 1836.

Agreeably to your Lordship's directions, I have had a plan of a prison for juvenile delinquents prepared by Mr. Bullar, which may be extended by using the boundary-wall in the rear of the prison as one of the sides of the next range of prison buildings.

This plan, together with Mr. Bullar's description and estimate, I have the honour of submitting to your Lordship's consideration.

It is constructed for 170 boys; but, by adding another story, cells for 92 more might be provided at about one-third of the expense of the other two stories.

I lament, however, to say that the cost of erecting it greatly exceeds the sum for which I had understood from Mr. Bullar such a prison might be constructed.

The estimate of the expense of a prison to contain, on two stories, 170 boys, £26,000; to contain 262 boys, on three stories, £34,700.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) WHITWORTH RUSSELL,
Inspector of Prisons.

The Lord John Russell,
&c. &c. &c.

Description of the Plan of a Prison for Juvenile Delinquents.

The site of ground proposed to be enclosed is 400 feet in front, by 330 feet in depth, comprising about three acres: the boundary-wall to be 18 feet high above the surface.

The prison will consist of four long buildings, connected at right angles with the central house, which will contain the officer's room, chapel, &c. A corridor or passage, 10 feet wide, runs through the centre of each building longitudinally, and the cells and rooms are arranged on each side of the corridors: by these means the whole of the interior will be under inspection from the central station of the officers, who will also have facility of access to each part.

The entrance-building contains a gateway, with turnkey's lodge, and two cells for prisoners who may be brought in at night, or for those who may be detained after the expiration of their sentence: the gateway leads to an enclosed court, which may be fitted up with seats, and used as a waiting-room. Beyond this court are four reception cells for prisoners who have not undergone the necessary examination and cleansing on their entrance; also the surgeon's examining-room, cleansing-room, (with bath, coppers, &c.,) clothing and store rooms, (for prisoners' own clothes,) clerk's office, and staircases leading to the basement, and also to the story above, the latter of which will contain 20 separate cells in the entrance wing-building. Each of the other three buildings is divided into cells, 12 in number on each side of the passage, and the arrangement of these buildings will be similar on each floor. The ground-floor will contain altogether 78 cells; the one-pair floor ditto, 92 cells; making together 170 cells: each cell to be 10 feet by 8 feet on the ground-floor, and 8 feet square on the upper floor; the corridor being made wider above to give additional light and air to the centre part. The upper story of cells to be entered from light iron galleries, about two feet six inches wide on each side, the corridor being left open to the roof, with skylights to facilitate the ventilation of the interior. The cells to be 10 feet high; the ceilings to be arched in brick-work, and paved with stone: the windows to be placed close up to the ceilings. Each cell to have a ventilator, fixed near the bottom, in the external wall, to admit the fresh air, and also one near the ceiling, next the corridor, to carry off the heated and impure air; the cells to have double doors, to prevent the prisoners from communicating together across the passages. The cells may be warmed by hot water pipes.

The central building to have a basement story, (as per plan,) to contain the kitchen, wash-house, and scullery, housekeeper's-room, store-rooms, and cellars. The ground-floor to contain four rooms, for the use of the governor and other officers; the one-pair story to contain two bed-rooms in front; the remaining part to be formed into a chapel (as per plan); this may also be used as a school-room.

Two cells at the end of each wing-building, on the upper floor, to be laid together, to be used as infirmaries, in extreme cases which may require the prisoners to be removed from the cells.

The end of the airing-grounds next the centre to be enclosed with iron railings, to form areas to the basement, and also to admit of the courts being inspected from the officers' rooms.

The work-rooms to be placed against the boundary-wall, (as per plan,) to be about 15 feet wide and 10 feet high, covered with shed roofing: the windows and doors to be next the airing-grounds. The end spaces, between the prison-building and work-rooms, to be enclosed to form privies and washing-places on each side of the passage.

General estimate of the expense:—

Centre building, three stories	£3,750
Staircases	1,056
Wing-buildings, two stories	16,050
Boundary wall	2,920
Workshops, &c.	1,440
Drains, &c.	810
Exclusive of fittings-up and warming-apparatus	£26,026

If another story be added to the wing-buildings, it will give 92 more cells, at about one-third of the expense of the two stories.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from W. CRAWFORD, Esq. and the Rev. W. RUSSELL, Inspectors of Prisons, to LORD JOHN RUSSELL.

MY LORD, Raymond Buildings, 28th December 1836.

Agreeably to your Lordship's commands, we proceed to state the subjects on which we were desirous of conferring with your Lordship before you left town.

One of these subjects relates to the Penitentiary for Juvenile Delinquents. By the estimate which we had the honour to lay before your Lordship, in September last, it appears that the cost of adapting the Hospital and Asylum at the Parkhurst Barracks, in the Isle of Wight, amounts to £16,490. This sum does not include the architect's commission and contingent expenses, which we find it is the general practice to estimate at ten per cent. This will occasion an addition to the estimate of £1,649, making a total of £18,139 for the Boys' Prison in the Isle of Wight. By Mr. Phillipps's letter of the 15th instant, we learn that it is your Lordship's intention to submit an estimate to Parliament, in the next Session, of £15,000, for this purpose. We beg leave respectfully to suggest that this sum be increased to £18,000, an amount which will be indispensably necessary for adapting the existing buildings to a Juvenile Reformatory for 280 boys. We request that your Lordship will direct the plans and estimates for the Boys' Prison to be returned to us, in order that we may carefully examine and correct them before the subject is brought under the consideration of Parliament.

GENERAL PENITENTIARY, MILBANK.

REPORT

Of the Superintending Committee of the GENERAL PENITENTIARY at Milbank, for the reception of Convicts; made in pursuance of the Act 56 Geo. III. c. 63, s. 39, and the 7 & 8 Geo. IV. c. 33, s. 6;—specifying the State of the Building; the Conduct of the Officers; the Treatment and Condition of the Prisoners; the Amount of their Earnings; and the Expenses of the Establishment during the Year 1836.

THAT part of the Building which was left uninjured by the fire, and which has continued to be occupied by the Prisoners, has undergone no further repairs than such as have been necessary to preserve it in good condition, and the expense has not exceeded that of former years.

To this Report is subjoined a letter from Sir Robert Smirke, stating the progress of the New Works directed by the Secretary of State; one part of which had been commenced before the fire, which happened in October 1835, for the purpose of confining Soldiers sentenced to imprisonment by courts-martial, and Convicts under short sentences of imprisonment; the other part, commenced subsequently to the fire, consists of cells, constructed under the immediate direction of the Inspectors of Prisons, with a view to the introduction of a system of complete separation of Prisoners from each other.

Neither of these plans is yet completed.

Great and important changes are contemplated in the general discipline of this Institution with a view to render the punishment of Prisoners more certain and severe; but by far the most interesting subject, both as regards punishment and reformation, is the experiment intended to be made in the total separation of individual Prisoners by confining them in cells (before alluded to) so constructed as to render all communication between them impracticable. The Committee are so fully sensible of the evils resulting from communication between Prisoners, that they would hail as a great public benefit the introduction of a plan which should effectually obviate those evils without endangering the mental or bodily health of the Prisoners.

The Committee have the satisfaction to state that they have succeeded in effecting further reductions in the expenses of the establishment in addition to those which were noticed in the Report of last year.

The Committee take this opportunity of again recording their opinion of Captain Chapman's unabated zeal and consideration for the public service.

The Committee have great reason to be satisfied with the conduct of the Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel Nihill, who has not only discharged the important duties of his office in an exemplary manner, but has on various occasions displayed a sound and discriminating judgment on matters connected with the improvement of prison discipline.

The Committee have much satisfaction in stating, that since the beginning of February last certain members of the "Ladies' Prison Associations" have been admitted to visit the females in the Penitentiary, and the Committee earnestly hope that the pious exertions of these benevolent ladies may, without at all interfering with the province of the Chaplain or the discipline of the Prison, be the means of rendering essential benefit to the Prisoners.

It is due to Mr. Wade, the resident Surgeon, to observe, that although the office of Medical Superintendent was abolished last year, his skill and attention have been successfully exerted in maintaining the general healthiness of the Prisoners.

The subordinate Officers of the Institution have in general discharged their duties in a satisfactory manner. Some few instances, however, of misconduct in this class of Officers have occurred, which have led to their dismissal.

The behaviour of the Convicts in general has been quiet and orderly.

The number of Convicts in the Prison on the 31st December 1835 was 445; viz. 366 males and 79 females; and on the 31st December last the number was 393, viz. 319 males and 74 females; having been augmented during the year by the reception of 137 males and 35 females, and diminished by the deaths of two males and two females, the discharge of 181 males and 38 females, and one male sent for transportation, according to his sentence, after having been some time confined in the Penitentiary.

The act of favour which was granted by the Secretary of State to those Prisoners who had rendered useful service at the time of the fire, abridging by three months the term at which it had been usual to recommend for pardon on account of good behaviour, has occasioned the discharge of a larger number than would otherwise have taken place.

Of those discharged, 150 males and 28 females were by free pardon, 12 males and five females on medical grounds, and 18 males and two females upon reports on their conduct after having undergone limited periods of imprisonment, and one male and three females on the expiration of short sentences of imprisonment.

Of the deaths of the males, one was from rupture, the other from fever; of the deaths of the females, one was from consumption, the other from scrofula.

The number of Prisoners at the present time in the Penitentiary is 409, being 332 males and 77 females.

The general health of the Prisoners throughout the whole of the last year has been good. Since the commencement of the present it was for a short time interrupted by the prevailing epidemic or influenza, which however proved fatal in only two cases. The health of the Prisoners is at present good, and there are only in the infirmaries six males and three females.

Of the Prisoners discharged in 1835, being 219 males and 51 females, 56 males and 13 females have received gratuities for good conduct since their discharge; nine males and four females have been refused; the applications of three males are under consideration; three males have died; one female is known to be going on well; one female is going on ill; one male and four females have been convicted again; two males have gone to America, and 145 males and 28 females are doubtful or unknown.

A statement of the Earnings of the Prisoners, and an account of the Expenses of the Establishment for the year 1836 are subjoined to this Report. The net expense to the public is 11,554 l. 1 s. 6 d., being 3,952 l. 7 s. 11 d. less than that of last year.

APPENDIX.

LETTER from Sir Robert Smirke, referred to in the preceding REPORT.

Sir, Stratford-place, 24 Feb. 1837.

In compliance with the desire of the Superintending Committee of the Penitentiary, I beg to report, for their information, that the works sanctioned in August 1835 have been for some time past completed, so far as they can be carried into execution until the alterations in the upper story of the pentagon No. 4 are decided upon; and the expenditure upon these works up to the present time has amounted to the sum of about 2,600 l.

I beg farther to report, for the information of the Committee, that the works sanctioned afterwards, on the 29th of October 1835, are completed, and the new roof has been fixed over the two pentagons Nos. 3 and 4, and over the hexagon buildings connected with them; the whole made of iron and slate.

The pipes and drains conveying the water from these new roofs have all been made and fixed, and are placed so as to be adapted to the alterations contemplated in the arrangement of the upper floor of cells; and the six cells forming nearly one arm or side of the pentagon No. 4 have been made according to the directions of the Secretary of State for the Home Department, received on the 8th of September last, and in a few days they will be in every respect completed.

The expenditure upon these works from their commencement to the present time amounts to the sum of about 5,400 l.

I am, &c.

Robert Auld, Esq. (signed) Robert Smirke.

As there is a Court of Quarter Sessions held in and for this Borough, no Prisoners are removed by the Borough Magistrates from this Gaol for trial at Quarter Sessions or at Assizes, except in capital cases.

It may, perhaps, be right to state here, that the County Magistrates in the course of the year send great numbers of persons to this Borough Gaol for a day or two, until they can be removed to the County Gaol at Winchester, for trial at Sessions or Assizes, as the case may be, the expenses of which are repaid the borough by the county.

Note.—These several sums, except the one at the July Assizes, where the Prisoner was discharged upon bail, includes the conveyance of Prisoners from the said Courts of Assizes and Sessions to this House of Correction, after trial, for punishment, which would have been the case supposing they had not been conveyed from hence to the said Courts for trial. This being the most central prison in this division of the county, it is less expensive to convey Prisoners for trial in the same conveyance which brings them back for punishment, than if they were conveyed past this to other prisons in different conveyances, and after trial returned here to undergo their punishment.

PRISONERS.

A RETURN of the Number of PRISONERS of both Sexes, removed from time to time from one Prison to another for the purpose of Trial at Sessions and Assizes in England and Wales, in the Year ending 31st January 1837.

(Captain Pechell.)

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed, 23 March 1837.

PRISONERS (SUSSEX).

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 16 February 1837;—for,

A RETURN of the Manner in which PRISONERS for TRIAL were confined during the times the Quarter Sessions and Assizes were holden in the County of Sussex, in the Year ending 31st January 1837, especially as to Dimensions of Rooms, Classification and Separation of Prisoners of both Sexes.

Sir, House of Correction at Lewes, 25 February 1837.

I HAVE to acquaint you, in obedience to your Letter of the 18th instant, calling for "A Return of the Manner in which Prisoners for Trial were confined during the times the Quarter Sessions and Assizes were holden in the County of Sussex, in the year ending 31st January 1837, especially as to Dimensions of Rooms, Classification and Separation of Prisoners of both Sexes;"—

That with regard to the confinement of Prisoners for trial at Lewes, during the times above mentioned, the Prisoners have, till the year 1836, been confined in rooms under and adjoining the Courts at the County Hall, placing in each room such number of Prisoners as it would most conveniently receive, in separate classes, namely, Felons and Misdemeanants.

At the Easter Session, at Lewes, 1836, an order was made for fitting up three of these rooms into twenty cells or separate compartments; and at the Michaelmas Session following, an order was also made for fitting up two other of the rooms into twelve additional cells or separate compartments. Each of these thirty-two compartments is appropriated to one Prisoner only, and has a seat therein, and gauze wire pannel is fixed in the door for inspection by the Turnkeys in attendance.

Each compartment is two feet and six inches wide, four feet and six inches deep, and seven feet high, dry, and well ventilated and lighted. One room is yet left for the confinement of Prisoners beyond the number of thirty-two, and which can be made into ten cells; there is also space in the passages for eight more cells; making a total of fifty cells, if required. The whole is sufficiently warmed by stoves in the winter months.

The House of Correction is within 400 yards of the County Hall, and Prisoners can be brought from the Prison to the County Hall (if wanted) in about 15 minutes.

The Male and Female Prisoners are kept quite separate, not only during their removal from the Prison to the County Hall, but also during the time they are there awaiting their trial, and on their return, after trial, to the Prison.

I am, Sir, your obedient Servant,

S. M. Phillipps, Esq., &c. &c. &c. Thos Ancell, Keeper.

Sir, Petworth House of Correction, February 25, 1837.

CONFORMABLY to the requisitions contained in your Letter of the 18th instant, I have the honour to transmit the following Return.

I am, Sir, your most obedient Servant,

S. M. Phillipps, Esq., &c. &c. &c. John Mance, Keeper.

A RETURN of the Manner in which PRISONERS committed to this HOUSE of CORRECTION to take their Trials at the Quarter Sessions and Assizes holden in the County of Sussex, were confined during the times of the said Sessions and Assizes, in the Year ending 31st January 1837, especially as to the Dimensions of the Rooms, Classification and Separation of both Sexes.

Epiphany and Easter Sessions, held at PETWORTH.	Midsummer Sessions, held at HORSHAM.	Michaelmas Sessions, held at CHICHESTER.	Spring and Summer Assizes, held at LEWES.
The Male and Female Prisoners were confined during the times of the above Sessions in separate cells in this House of Correction, except when they were awaiting their trials at the Court-house, where the sexes were confined in separate rooms: No. 1, measuring 37 feet by 16 feet 6 inches; and No. 2, 16 feet by 11 feet 6 inches, which is the only means of classifying Prisoners at the Court-house.	--The Male and Female Prisoners were confined during the above Sessions in separate cells in Horsham Gaol, except when they were awaiting their trials at the Court-house, where the Males were confined under the Court, in three rooms or cellars, of the following dimensions: No. 1, 11 feet by 10 feet 8 inches; No. 2, 11 feet 9 inches by 8 feet; and No. 3, 11 feet 9 inches by 8 feet. Two of these cellars were partly filled up by casks and brewing utensils. The Females were confined in the passage leading therefrom to the Court; which places are so close and stenchy, that the doors opening into the street were necessarily kept open during the whole time the Prisoners were confined therein; and to prevent their escaping, they were slightly ironed for their safe custody.	-- The Male and Female Prisoners were confined in the City Gaol; the Males in two rooms of the following dimensions: No. 1, 11 feet 10 inches by 10 feet 9 inches; and No. 2, 11 feet 10 inches by 8 feet 9 inches, where they sleep in their clothes upon straw; and the room in which the Females were confined measures 10 feet 9 inches by 9 feet 4 inches, except when they were awaiting their trials at the Court-house, where the Males were confined in a room 19 feet by 8 feet 9 inches, and the Females in a space measuring about 36 square feet; thus the Males and Females are separated; but no further classification is admissible, either in the Court-house or Gaol.	-- Prisoners for trial at the Assizes are delivered over into the custody of the Keepers of Horsham Gaol and Lewes House of Correction; the particulars of whose confinement will be found in the Reports of the Keepers of those prisons.

John Mance, Keeper.
